V.O.N. makes 700 visits to home care patients in North and Oakville

Providing service to the people of Oakville and North Halton, the Oakville branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses paid 8,406 calls to 372 patients.

The 341 adult patients cared for received 6,068 visits; 10 newborn infants were visited 24 times; one pre-schooler received 17 visits and seven school-age children were visited 196 times.

Recently reorganized into one entity, the Halton Victorian

Order of Nurses, reports from the Oakville and Burlington operations were presented at the annual meeting recently in Oakville.

700 Home Care visits

The report showed the Oakville branch also became involved in the new paramedical program in 1972, completing 72 examinations for insurance companies. Nurses made 700 visits to patients under the home care program, which is administered by Medical Data Sciences.

survey in Milton with VON help. VON personnel were accompanied on rounds for 45 days by student nurses from Credit Valley School of Nursing in Mississauga and two students from Quo Vadis School of Nursing.

In her report on the Burlington operation, Nancy Sipekema reported 80 per cent of the patients cared for by the VON in 1972 were on the home care program administered by the Order since 1968. Her report also showed 8,496 visits made to Burlington citizens, of which 8,141 were to adults.

A total of 343 night calls were made with approximately 98 per cent of total visits to patients with medical or surgical problems.

Young people birthday news

(intended for last week)

By Mrs. Ron McLean

Birthday greetings to Mrs. H. Blyth.

Corie-Lynn Susan Fatt made her first appearance at church. The young people are to go to Durham on Saturday night.

Church service

The Junior choir sang, "Yesterday He died for me." Jesus taught about seeing God. It was a promise and with that promise He made a condition, that seemed to make it almost impossible. The pure in heart shall see God. It is within each one of us to see the heavenly Father. As an object lesson, a number of objects were put on a table and people allowed a certain time to look at them. When they reported, they missed the sound of a piano playing, the traffic and the smell of a cigar. They only observed what they saw with their eyes.

Jesus talked about seeing with the inner eye of the spirit. There is an awareness within you. Its highest realization enables you to see God.

Why don't we see Him more often? Where your treasure is, there will your heart be. After showing a group of people through a wonderful art gallery, the curator asked if there were any questions. One woman asked, "What kind of wax do you use on your floors?"

Ill health forces bishop to retire

Joseph F. Ryan has decided to resign as bishop of the huge Roman Catholic diocese of Hamilton, which includes all the parishes in Halton and Wellington.

Pope Paul VI has accepted the resignation which was forced by the ill health that kept the bishop in hospital during January and February. The administration of the diocese was in the hands of his assistant, Bishop Paul Reding, during his absence.

During his 35 years as head of the Hamilton diocese, Bishop Ryan has seen the population double as well as the number of churches and schools under his jurisdiction. He took a special interest in Catholic education, especially at the high school level. His most difficult task in the high school field was keeping grades 11, 12 and 13 going since they receive no provincial support.

52 years in diocese

Associated with the diocese for 52 years, the bishop was ordained a priest in May, 1921, and later in the year appointed assistant at the former St. Marys Cathedral in Hamilton. In 1925 he became pastor of the cathedral and the following year left for three years of study in Rome. He was re-appointed rector of the cathedral on his return and when the new cathedral of Christ the King was opened in 1933 he was named rector.

In 1937 Joseph Ryan was appointed Bishop of Hamilton after a two month stint as administrator and he has become well known over the seven and a half counties which constitute the diocese. He often came here to administer the Sacrament of Confirmation. An able speaker, he intends to assist Bishop Reding for several more months.

4-H executives get some tips

By Alice Summerfield

The Halton 4-H Club executives were given a brief description of the responsibilities of the roles of a president, vice-president, secretary and press reporter. We watched a film entitled "Parliamentary Procedure" or in other words, the system for conducting a meeting. The members learned from this helpful film the basics of making motions, amendments, and the responsibilities of the chairman.

At the 4-H executive workshop, held in the afternoon of Saturday, April 7 at the Milton Agricultural office, Roy Downs of The Champion briefly discussed "Tips on Newspaper Writing for Press Reporters".

Rick Britton went over the "Duties of the Secretary", followed by Mac Armstrong, Assistant Agricultural Representative, explaining the "Duties of the President".

Eight attend

Of the 28 representatives who should have attended this meeting, eight were present, not counting the speakers. All four of the Halton 4-H Sheep Club executives were present.

Summary sheets were handed out including one on "How to Run a 4-H Meeting". Those who failed to attend missed an opportunity to become aware of profitable points that help make 4-H worthwhile and effectively run.

Greenock Women's Institute held their March meeting at the home of Mrs. G. Wallace, two weeks later due to inclement weather. Mrs. J. McCulloch opened the meeting by reading an article from an English newspaper. The meditation was given by Mrs. R. Sinclair and she used as her subject, Prayer, followed by The Lord's Prayer.

Mrs. A. Gates gave an account of the District W.I. meeting at Hillsburgh March 26, which she and Miss Elva Pearen attended. Mrs. C. Allan read an article on buying of Canadian land by Americans.

Annual meeting

For the annual meeting it was decided to have a pot luck lunch at the home of Mrs. C. Aitken, April 17 at 12:30 p.m.

The hostess, lunch committee and program conveners were thanked by the courtesy convener, Mrs. R. McKeown.

A new telephone directory encompassing most of Halton and Peel Counties will be issued throughout the two-county area on Jan. 1, 1974. The new book is part of a Bell Canada program to replace seven existing books in the Toronto area with three new ones.

The Halton and Peel Regions book will include all exchanges bounded by Shelburne, Bolton, Campbellville and Oakville—virtually all of Halton and Peel—with the exception of Burlington and Acton exchanges. Area Bell manager Bill Barnes of Oakville said Acton people wanted to be included in the Guelph directory and the Burlington residents wanted their listings in the Hamilton book.

Streamline

"Recent surveys have shown that our present directories in the Toronto area are outmoded in relation to current customer calling patterns," he said. "So we've decided to streamline our directory program by reducing the number of books."

The three directories cover from Campbellville to Pickering and north to Lake Simcoe. The Halton-Peel book will be green, the Metropolitan Toronto book blue and the York Region book purple.

An artist and a timber merchant looked at a stand of trees. The artist saw their beauty; the merchant figured that he could get 80¢ a foot, allowing for cutting and hauling.

How do you see people?—Only as souls, or as how you can use them?

Prayer and meditation are two sides of the same coin. The former is talking, the latter is listening.

Extension is granted

Halton County Council's Roads Committee agreed at a meeting last week that Civiero Construction Co. Ltd. should have an extension of the deadline for work on Trafalgar Rd.

The firm noted poor weather had delayed work and requested an extension to June 15. The county committee extended the deadline but only until May 25.

New carpet

New deep red carpeting was installed last week in Trinity United church in time for Palm Sunday. The United Church Women undertook the project.

NEW PHONE DIRECTORIES to be issued early in 1974 will lump the Halton and Peel areas (excluding Acton and Burlington) in one larger directory. Bell Canada is grouping seven present Metro and area phone books into three new books next year. The map shows communities whose phone listings will be included in the green Halton-Peel Regions book.
