Acton council dealt with a variety of matters at their regular meeting Tuesday, the Halton County Farmstead and Rural Home competition. Council learned Acton was the only municipality which had not yet donated. Georgetown had given $500, Esquesing $300, Milton $300. Nassagaweya $100, Oakville $300, Burlington $300. "Councillors Masales and Coats opposed the motion.

R. V. Anderson Associates acting as engineers for Gino Civiero and Paul Nielsen for engineering in the industrial park, despite the fact they are the town engineers as well. Halton Hills will have its own engineering staff come January.

Type of building to house the new well at the tip of the park was discussed again. The engineer recommended a log-cabin panabode type of building. He felt the type of land would not permit an underground building. Deputy-reeve Marks pointed out septic tanks are built underground all right without water seepage. Mr. Coats favored it above ground. Put birdhouses on it,
