

Six hour judo match produces champs

In an invitational match Sunday December 9, 110 competitors from Belfountain, Guelph, Toronto, Acton and Georgetown lined the mats at the Georgetown Budokan Judo Club in a six hour junior and intermediate competition.

There were six winners from the two Georgetown clubs. Green, blue, and red belt, under 60 pound champion was David D'Entremont. Runners-up in the same belt category, but under 80 pounds and under 100 pounds were Don McWilliams and Rod Donaldson, respectively. All are from Georgetown Budokan.

Also from Budokan, in the girls' class, green, blue, and red belt, under 60 pounds, was Patti Walsh. Two winners were from Georgetown Cedarvale Judo Club. In the red, white, and orange belt category, under 100 pounds, Rick Somerville was champion and Doug Breadner runner-up.

Over 100 spectators cheered the participants and filled the Rose Room to capacity. Winner of a draw to help cover operating expenses for the club was Miss Speers, a teacher at Brookville school. The ticket, which brought her $215.50 (the same amount to go to the club) was sold to her by one of her students, Winston Cronkite.

Jim Thomson, Acton, and Kevin Doherty, Toronto, compete in a bout.

Accident victim

Bruce Laidlaw Ismond, 46-year-old Erin district cattle dealer and farmer, died last Fri., Nov. 30 of injuries received in an accident at Cobden near Pembroke in the Ottawa Valley.

Mr. Ismond was standing on the loading chute in a sales barnyard when he became crushed between a truck and the platform. He was rushed to the Civic Hospital in Pembroke.

Born in the Brampton area, Mr. Ismond farmed with his father near Georgetown until his marriage to the former Lorene Yates. He then purchased the 150-acre farm on the 10th Line at the Belfountain Sideroad and developed a fine herd of registered Holsteins. A couple of years ago he disposed of his dairy cattle and became a cattle broker.

Besides his wife, Mr. Ismond is survived by a daughter, Betty Lou, son, Leonard, brothers, Donald of Hillsburgh, George of Campbellville, James of Acton and a sister, Mary (Mrs. Milford Fenwick) of Brampton.

Funeral service was held Dec. 3 at the McClure-Jones Funeral Home, Georgetown, with Rev. Don Herbison of Erin officiating. Interment was in Brampton Cemetery.

Proposal

Health unit budget exceeds $1,038,000

Halton County Council will be asked to approve a Halton County Health Unit budget of about $1,038,000 at the next regular meeting. The health unit budget is traditionally dealt with in November or December as opposed to the spring when the other budgets are considered.

The increase of $135,956 is substantially due to proposals for six additional staff members to be hired by the health unit.

Dorothy Craig, Director of Nursing said the population in the county was increasing rapidly and the health unit wasn't keeping pace with that growth.

She indicated a need for some new programs and more staff to adequately handle the programs the unit now involves itself in.

New staff health nurses, two senior clerical workers and an assistant director of nursing, Jim Powell, chief public health inspector also requested one additional inspector to help keep pace with growth in the county.

Last year the county budgeted $935,980 but only spent $892,473. This year the board budgeted in excess of $778,163 for salaries, $76,370 for fringe benefits, $38,300 for staff for equipment expenses, $5,650 for equipment purchasing, $12,000 for staff supplies and materials.

Landlord, tenant bureau suggested for new region

Halton Regional Council will consider the formation of a Landlord and Tenant Advisory Bureau for Halton Region in the near future.

Evelyn Hudgins, Chairman of the Burlington Landlord and Tenant Advisory Board explained the function of the bureau to the administration and finance committee last week.

Mrs. Hudgins explained that the Burlington bureau would become defunct as of Jan. 1 because of stipulations in Bill 151.

Start rehabilitation Campbellville quarry

Nassagaweya council granted licenses to Campbellville Gravel Supplies after general manager Brian Harrop explained short and long range planning for the business.

He explained work had been started on rehabilitation and noted grass and trees will be planted. He said some berming has been done and more will be completed in the future.

The long range plans make provision for a pond 20 or 30 feet deep.

The firm, under new ownership, is one of those over which township councils had expressed dismay in the past few years.

Campbellville mourns the passing of an era

By Joyce Beaton

Campbellville marked the end of its 60 years as a police village Monday with a nostalgic look at the past. Former trustees, hydro commissioners and guests comprised the 60 people who attended a farewell dinner at the Masonic Hall, as Campbellville prepares to enter into the new Town of Milton in January.

Jack McPhail, a former trustee and master of ceremonies for the evening, said, "It is with regret and sadness that we are here this evening to mark the passing of the police village of Campbellville."

His sentiments were echoed by speakers throughout the evening. June Andrews, local historian, gave a concise history of the police village since its inception in 1914. She told of the first concrete sidewalks laid to replace the boardwalks of 1900. A by-law was written at that time which threatened a $50 fine or a jail term to persons not cleaning the sidewalks within an hour after a snow storm.

History As early as 1918 letters of complaint from the village trustees were written to C.P.R. about the road being blocked by trains for periods. There was a 15 mph speed limit at that time through the village.

The first electric lights were installed in 1924 consisting of 34 subscriptions and 14 streetlights. Ross Carbert, hydro commissioner since 1945, informed the gathering that today Campbellville has 100 domestic and six commercial hydro users.

Reminiscing of times gone by Omer VanSickle, one of the last Campbellville trustees, told of his memories as a child playing on the sidewalks of the village. He remarked on the trustees of the past 25 years, most of whom were in attendance at the dinner. "This is a unique gathering," he said, "here this evening are some of the earliest trustees to serve the village."

"We know we cannot remain an isolated pioneer-type community, but it is with sadness we see the village disappearing. With the coming of regional government the communication lines will be a little longer," Mr. VanSickle observed.

Oldest trustee Lloyd Crawford, a trustee in 1921 and again in 1955, said there was more business done in 1899 in Campbellville than now, but felt that perhaps with regional government business would pick up. Mr. Crawford, one of the oldest living trustees, regretted the abolition of the village trustee system saying, "We could always talk to them about our problems."

Anne MacArthur, Warden of Halton County and Reeve of Nassagaweya Township as guest of honor said, "I feel very lonesome at present, the people of Campbellville are very dear to my heart. I have tried to protect you from trucks, blasting, and all the things that irritate and annoy you."

"However," she said, referring to the incoming regional government, "how much longer I can protect you is doubtful, but we'll keep on trying."

Mrs. MacArthur, who as a child attended St. David's Church in Campbellville, which her grandfather and his seven brothers helped to build, reflected, "My ties are very deep and very strong. I know how the village people stick together and all quietly help one another. Campbellville will always be with us. I will make sure in the three years allotted to me as Mayor of Milton that in some way, shape, or form they will not be forgotten."

The Dec. 1915 edition of The Champion made this comment on the selection of the village trustees, "This is a good selection, we believe they will do all they can to advance the well-being of our little village."

Since John Campbell first settled there in 1832 Campbellville has been a secluded country village. Its residents Monday night mourned the passing of an era and looked with apprehension to the future under regional government.
