

THE NIGHT BEFORE Christmas was performed by Ian Coats class at the old-fashioned Christmas concert at the United church last Friday night.

Sharon Bendicks, who played Santa, popped down a cardboard chimney with great style.

Magic in workshop

Traditionally the Yule season has been a do-it-yourselfer's delight. The men of the house used to do everything from chopping down the tree to going after the holiday bird. While the modern family head is usually spared such back-breaking chores, he still finds the workshop a great place to work some Christmas magic.

A charming doll house for your little girl can be made from a discarded bookcase. Just clean it up, sand it down, add wood or heavy cardboard partitions for rooms, and paint it playful colors. Some miniatures, a Christmas doll - and really - the most beautiful gift ever!

A wooden box painted in bright colors makes a sturdy toy chest. Another idea using a wooden box is to turn it upside down, paint, then top with a colorful cushion, you'll have a brand new child's hassock.

KISSING: Mistletoe, said to hold a license for kissing, was renowned in ancient times for many mystical powers. Because of its pagan associations, it was long forbidden in churches.

Our Christmas wish: that your heart shares the blessed joy of the shepherds.

FROSTY THE SNOWMAN came to Nassagaweya Sunday night as a result of the first snowfall of the season. Eight-year-old Lorne Beaton is dwarfed by the snowy structure he and his brothers made to celebrate the arrival of winter.

Best wishes for old fashioned Christmas joys . . . and thank you for the pleasure and privilege of serving you, our valued friends.
