90th birthelay for auctioneer Hindley

Going, going, gone, and the casual pointing of a walking cane would indicate that another item had been sold and the crowd would follow behind its favorite auctioneer to the next item of sale.

For approximately 49 years William Roy Hindley, better known as Roy, was the district's leading agent selling at farm rings in the zero weather of wintertime or ensual furniture and chattel sales during spring and summer. Church bazaars and charity auctions, everything to be sold was always considered fair game when the muster salesman of the district was on hand.

Friday, Jan. 4, marked an important episode in the life of Itoy Hindley. To celebrate his 90th birthday he was feted to a family party on Saturday, with entertainment prepared and presented by his five grandehildren and two nieces who attended from Another fun item of the celebration was when a tape was produced of the recorded voice of grandfather Hindley, reciting, as he had for many years at church socials and other functions. Roy had made the recording two years ago and everyone enjoyed listening to his recitations.

"It was a very exciting day," he sold later, pleased at being so well remembered. Mr. Hindley's days of auctioneering rank him as one of the first in the district. Born infant, ones of his youthful in 1934 at the family Hindley form in Eramona he moved with his parents to a form on the 1st line of Erln near Ospringe where, with his two older sisters, he attended Ospringe Public School
