New phone

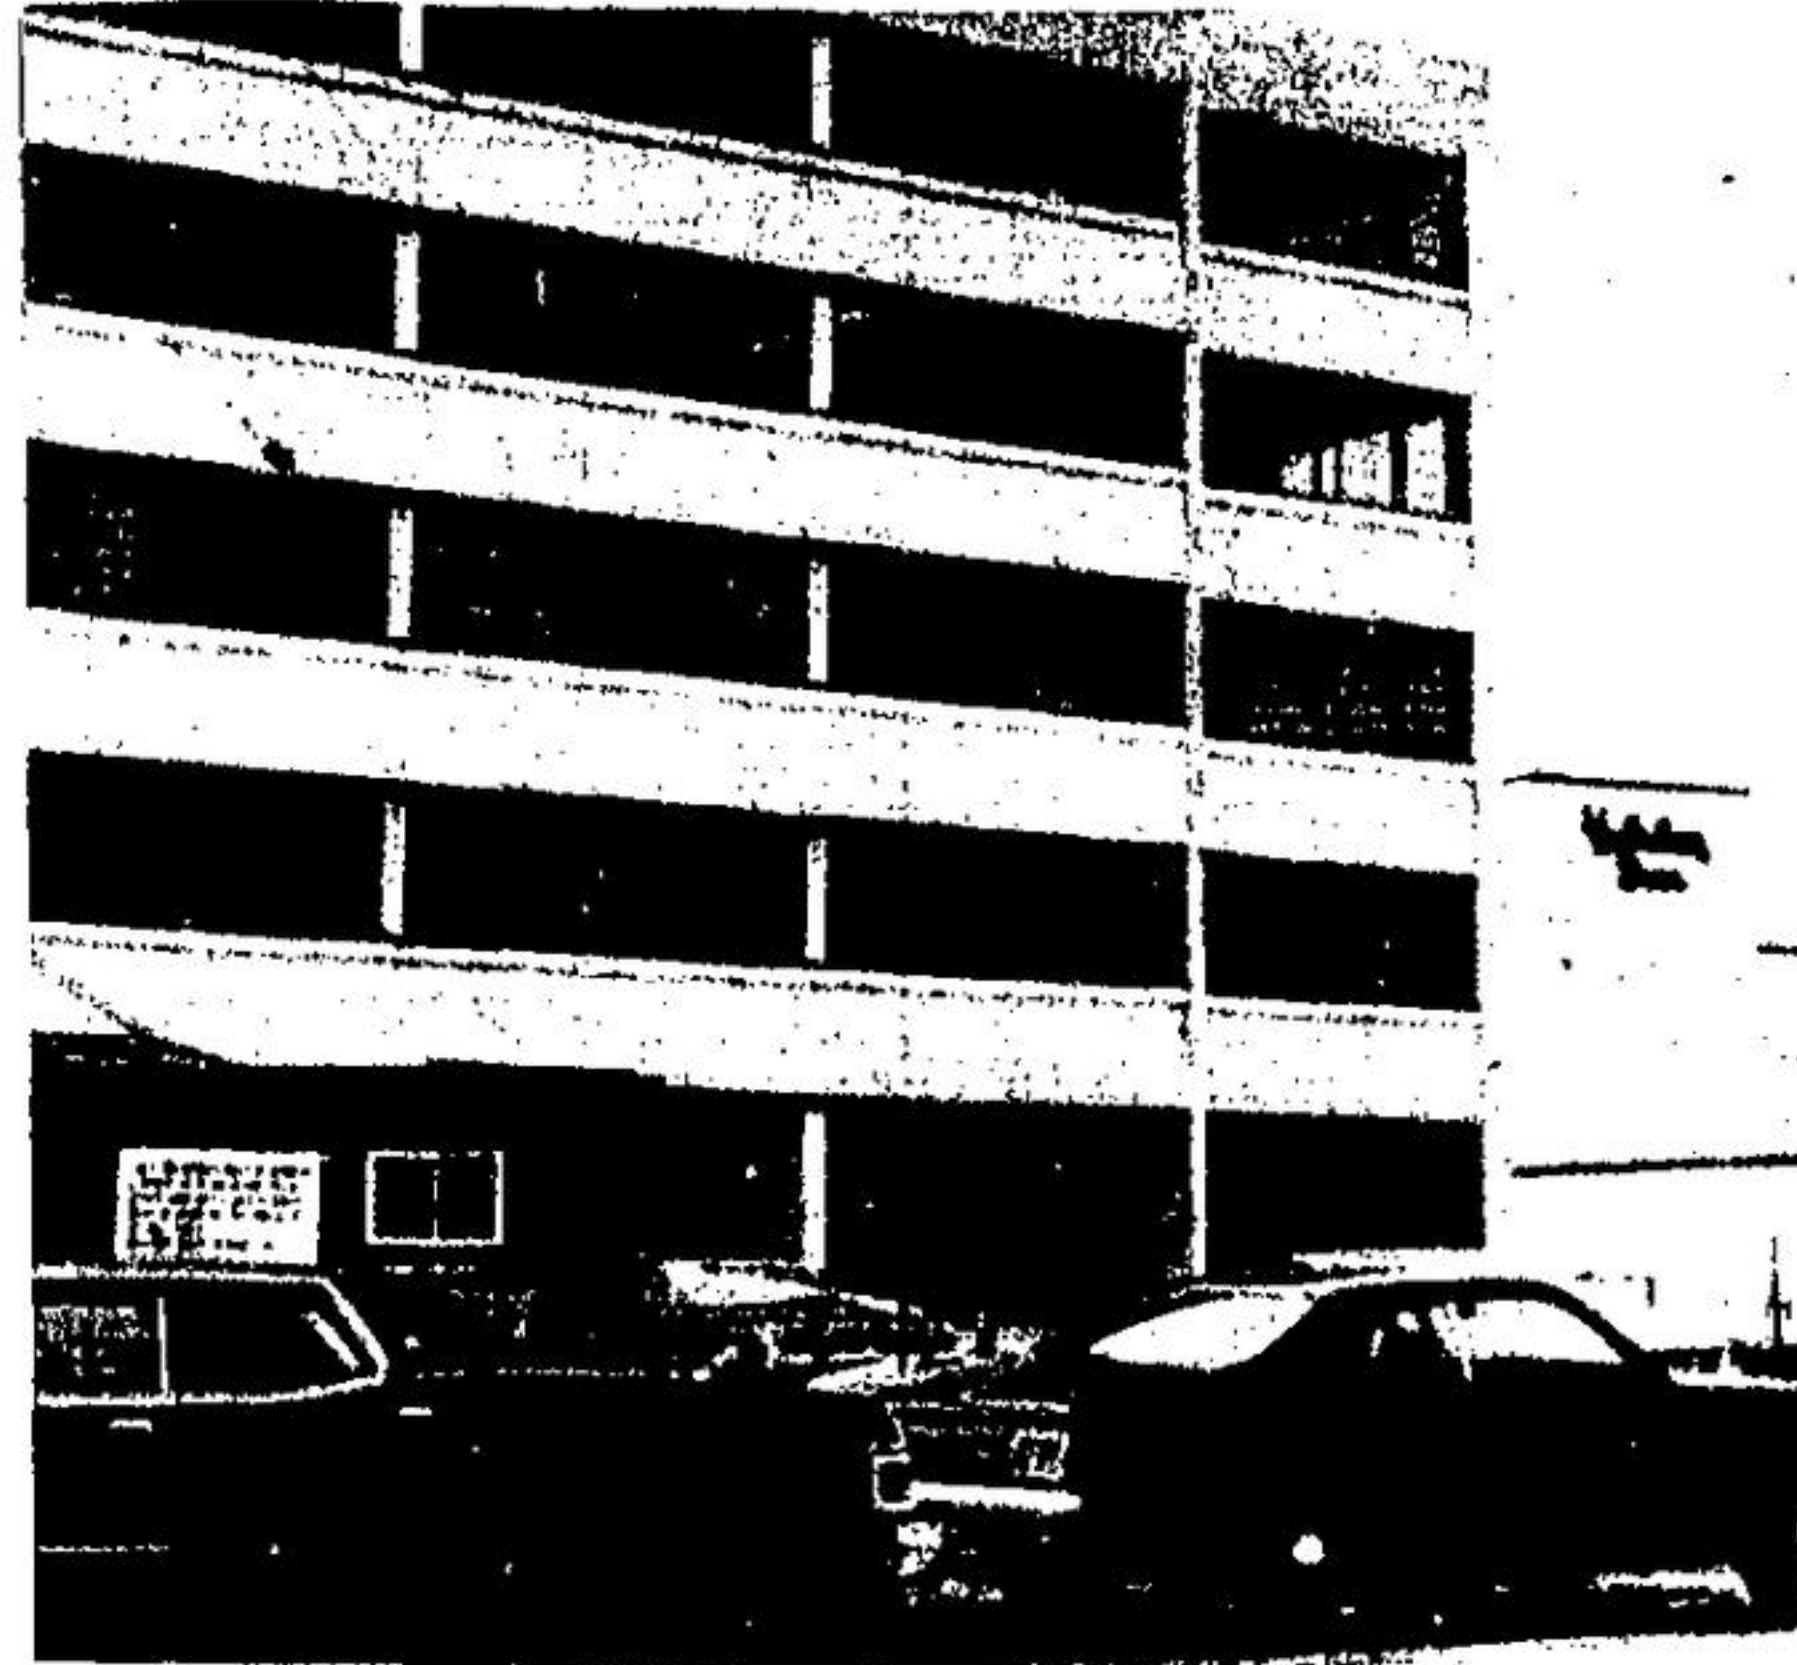

Region moves to new office

Haltom Region headquarters moved from Milton last weekend to a new location at 3027 Harvester Rd. in Burlington. The new headquarters building is situated at the corner of Guelph Line and the Queen Elizabeth Highway.

Regional meetings for this week were cancelled to allow staff to get organized in their new quarters.

New number
Because of the move, changes in the telephone system have been made. The new line for the main switchboard is 878-5571.

The public works garage numbers are changed to 878-7249 and 878-7240. Callers will no longer be able to contact the Health Unit Head Office, Haltom Centennial Manor or the Haltom County Museum through the switchboard.

CONSTRUCTION ISN'T completely finished but employees of the Regional Municipality of Haltom moved into their new quarters at Interchange Park in Burlington, on the weekend. The building is at the corner of the Guelph Line and the Queen Elizabeth Way, close to the new Holiday Inn.

Health Unit numbers are 878-7245, 878-7246 and 878-7247. The museum can be contacted directly by calling 878-3233 and the Haltom Centennial Manor will have to be called direct at 878-4141.

Georgetown residents can contact the region at 877-3547 and residents in the region using a Guelph exchange should call 821-4267. In addition to those numbers the region has a Zenith number 94040 for the convenience of those residents outside direct dialing areas.

Regional employees settle into new office

Employees of Haltom Region showed up for work Monday to dig their way around piles of boxes, some loaded, some unloaded, plus filing cabinets, furniture and a wealth of other objects.

The region staff moved from historic county headquarters in Milton to the new location at Harvester Rd. in Burlington. Supervisory staff worked with movers Friday night, Saturday and Sunday moving from Milton to Burlington.

Clerk Garfield Brown said the move had gone very well. He heaped praise on Bell Canada and tradesmen who worked diligently to have the building ready for occupancy Monday.

"Bell really excelled themselves. They bustled their backside running lines and getting things ready for us," Brown said.

While the move went well, it wasn't without some problems. A room set aside for a computer room was found to be unfit because of the lack of temperature control and the lack of heavy duty wiring.

Most employees involved themselves in getting things straightened around Monday while others cleared a corner of their offices away and got down to a little work.

The region has all of the third and fourth floors of the building for regional use as well as some ground floor space for a mail room and print shop.

For the better part the offices are of the open concept nature, divided only by visual barriers.

Space is set aside on the third floor for Social and Family Services, personnel, council chambers, the chairman's suite and an industrial commission.

Public works, the land division committee, planning department and the legal department will be on the fourth floor.

The region is leasing space from Peter Lush Associates at $40,328 per year. While employees have much more space than they had at the Steeles Ave. building, it appears that the space will be basic office accommodation in a functional but not elaborate setting.

Haltom's former administration building was sold to the provincial government for court and registry office use. The Burlington regional headquarters is leased for three years while a new permanent home is being located or built.

Grand jury

A Haltom grand jury report indicated the need for better staff accommodation at Haltom County Jail.

The report indicated a need for painting the lunchroom and replacing a toilet in the nurse's room. The century-old building has been the subject of criticism by a series of grand juries. The facility will eventually be replaced by a new modern jail to be built in conjunction with the Maplehurst complex.
