Spring feeding for green lawns

The arrival of spring means it's time to get out your fertilizer spreader.

"Lawns usually benefit from about four applications of a 'complete' fertilizer each year," says John Hughes, horticulturist with the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food. "The first application should be given in early spring, just before active growth begins." Most garden supply centres stock special turf fertilizers such as 7-7-7, 12-6-6 or 10-6-4, all suitable for lawns and turf generally. Usually a rate of 15 to 20 pounds of 7-7-7 per 1,000 square feet (or proportionate amount of a different grade of fertilizer) will take care of the early season requirements of your lawn.

It is often a good practice to apply half the fertilizer going in one direction and the other half at right angles to it.

Remember that your lawn requires fertilizer more than once each year. You should be prepared for a second application in May, a third in early June to maintain fertility, and a fourth to be given in late summer or early fall to supply the plant food necessary for fall growth.

The 80th annual meeting of Brampton Presbyterian took place in Knox Presbyterian Church, Oakville with president Mrs. W. Weber, presiding.

Following lunch, each group leader brought her group together and read a letter from a missionary of deaconess and each member wrote a short prayer, later Miss Evelyn Murdoch conducted a prayer service using ten prayers which were projected and read in unison.
