

Signs of Spring

Walking through roadside bushes, in the northern part of Halton reveals many wildflowers in bloom, adding color and beauty to the forests they inhabit. The trilliums, Ontario's emblem seem to be most abundant popping up almost anywhere. The spring rains over the weekend added to the growing number of spring wildflowers carpeting those woods where pickers have happily ignored them and development has so far skirted them.

(Staff photos by Steven Dills)

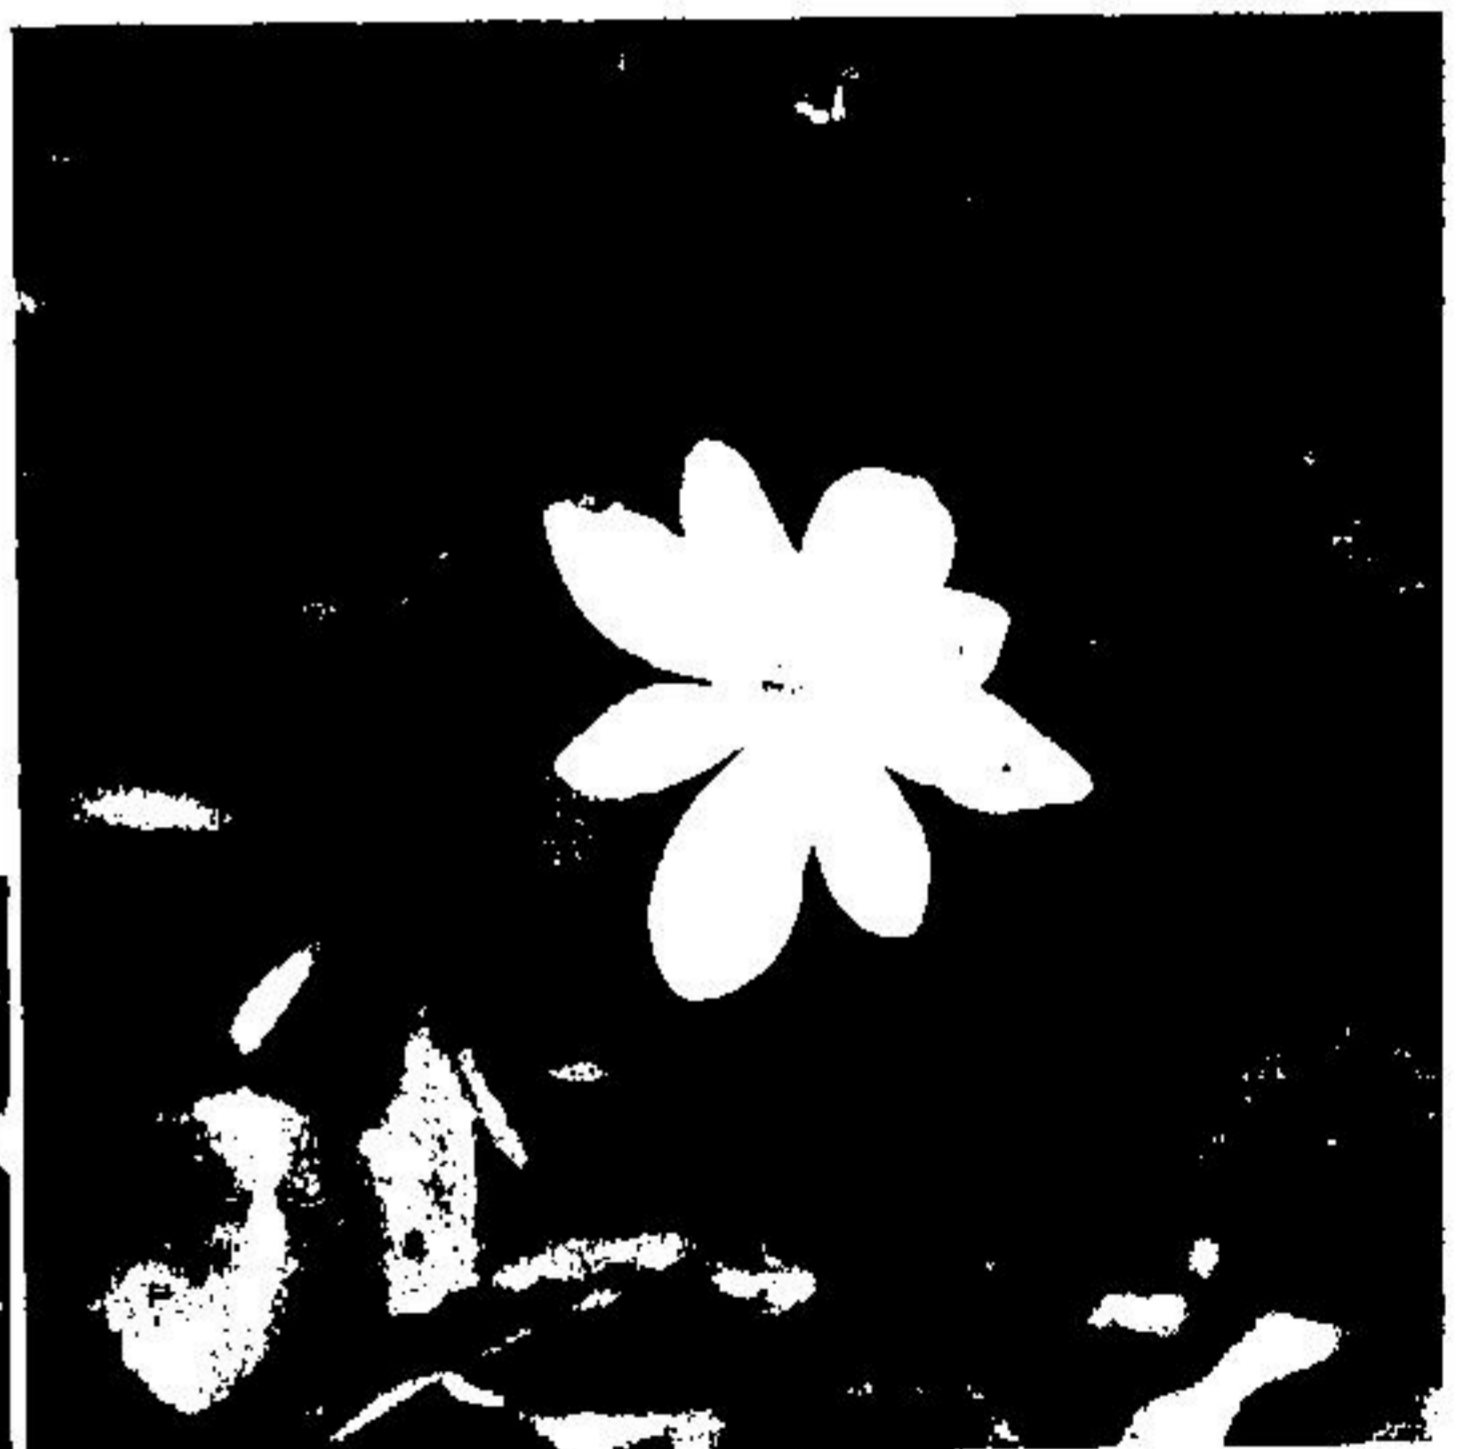

Marsh Marigolds in bloom.

Trilliums in abundance.

Bloodroot attracts a bee.

A Mayflower shows itself.

A Dogtooth Violet is visible in the foliage.

