

CNIB canvass starts June 10

The annual canvass for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind will take place in Acton and district from June 10 to June 22 this year. The campaign will be under the chairmanship of Vic Bristow again and he will have his faithful group of workers out for these two weeks.

They hope that the people of Acton will be as generous as they were last year in supporting this very worthwhile cause.

Services
"Your support does so very much to help the hundreds of things the C.N.I.B. does for the blind," Mr. Bristow says. Some of the services provided are recorded Braille books, sent post free to listeners in this district, and corneal transplants from donated eyes. 50,000 Canadians have pledged their eyes through the Eye Bank of Canada.

45,000 people across Canada are giving their time voluntarily to work for the blind. There are blind ham radio operators making good use of their time, assisted by sighted operators.

Prevention
C.N.I.B. serves a double function. It is a rehabilitation agency and a prevention service.

Fifty per cent of blindness can be prevented if detected in time. Clinics are conducted in hundreds of communities for pre-school children to detect eye defects at an early age. Glaucoma clinics are also operated. Mobile vans conduct examinations in remote areas.

Recently one van examined 1500 people and found 64 per cent had eye defects. About half were children but because of early diagnosis almost all were able to avoid sight problems which would have occurred in the future.

Longer life spans means increasing numbers of elderly blind people. The C.N.I.B. also provides many recreational outlets for the blind. Through training many blind people have been taught to swim, ski, play ball and hockey, sail, dance, and dozens of other activities which would have been denied to them.

"These are people just like us and they deserve as full a life as can be made for them," says Vic Bristow.

AFTER 20 years in the tool and die room, J. H. (Did) Price retired from Building Products of Canada. A ceremony was held Friday at the plant. Jack Denny, Union president and Hector Daigle of the safety committee, presented tokens of appreciation.

AT A CEREMONY held at Building Products of Canada plant Friday, J. H. Price was honoured for 20 years of service in the tool and die room. Dan Hilliard, president of the employees association, Mary Logan, treasurer, and Gloria Moore, secretary, presented tokens of appreciation. Plant Manager Leno Braida also made a presentation to Mr. Price.
