

MISTER MUSIC himself, Ron Hashey, is seen at last Saturday's grand opening of his new Mister Music store where guitars, sheet music and books are popular items. "Records will be a big thing," says the enthusiastic proprietor who says that already business is great, with many sign-ups completed for music lessons. Saturday's raffle winner of the El Degas guitar was Bill Chagnon with the lucky choice made at 5 p.m. "Drop in and see us," says Mister Music whose store offers sales, service, repairs and rentals as well as lessons.

Town debates region

"To date regional government hasn't done anything for us," said Councillor Harry Levy at Monday night's council meeting.

He made the comment during a debate on a Milton resolution opposing the control of local official plan amendments, zoning bylaws and subdivision plans being in the hands of Halton Region.

Councillor Ric Morrow contended it was better to have the control at the Region where local representatives are members rather than in the hands of the Ontario Municipal Board. He said there was a chance the "tremendous delays" could be cut down.

Levy contended Halton Hills was losing control of its own destiny.

"We don't have it now, the province has," retorted Morrow.

Morrow claimed the province recognizes it is impossible for them to control all the towns in Ontario and want to turn the responsibility over to the Region.

Councillor Dick Howitt said the Milton resolution did not go far enough. He said the resolution should say the responsibility should lie with the area municipality.

"If we've got to have a big boss I'd rather it was the OMB," said Hyde.

Councillor Ernie Sykes said the basic premise of Regional government was to divest the province of authority and put it in the hands of the Region.

"They wanted the Region to make decisions for the local areas rather than the province, who have to deal with more than 100 municipalities rather than nine or ten."

Sykes reminded council there are five members from Halton Hills at the Region, but nobody at the OMB.

Councillor Pat McKenzie suggested they get together with Milton to discuss the matter. He pointed out it is the northern municipalities who have the problem.

Council agreed to meet with Milton council at a time to be arranged by Mayor Tom Hill.

New emblem too good for truck

After two weeks discussion on the use of the new town armorial shield on town vehicles, Monday night council shot down the whole idea of having the emblem on trucks.

Councillor Erin Hyde had proposed the whole shield be used, but on the advice of artist Miss Dorothy Stone, council in committee of the whole Monday night decided to have the decals printed with only the shield without the crown on top and Latin motto at the bottom.

Councillor Ric Morrow sparked the overthrow of the whole idea when he claimed none of the emblem should be used on trucks. He said it ludicrous to put a coat of arms, proved correct in every detail, on vehicles such as garbage trucks.

He claimed it should be put to more prestigious uses. "Maybe the council chamber and the mayor's car, but it is ridiculous on a battered garbage paker and is a waste of money," he contended.

Morrow made a motion that the town emblem could only be used as designated by council.

The motion passed but left Councillor Mike Armstrong asking "What do we put on the trucks now?"

Earlier in the meeting Miss Stone read a letter from a director of the Heraldic Society of Canada saying in his opinion the town shield is heraldically correct in every aspect and would probably be accepted unchanged by the Lyon Court of Arms in Edinburgh, Scotland.

Councillor Ernie Hyde said, "I'm pleased to see Miss Stone has been proven correct. She should have a smile of satisfaction on her face."

Christmas seals bring $60,216.33

This has been the most progressive year of the Halton Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association since it was formed in April, 1951. Reports at the annual meeting reveal contributions to the Christmas Seal campaign were increased 6.3 per cent over last year. Total money raised was $60,216.33, enabling the association to sponsor smoking withdrawal clinics, condition courses for asthmatic children and education programs on asthma for parents, teachers and the medical profession. Seminars for doctors and nurses on other respiratory diseases were also held.

To date 8,868 people have been tested in the Pulmonary Function Screening program, showing 9.8 per cent to have an abnormality. According to Dr. I.A. Hunter, chairman of the medical advisory committee, "Eradication of TB has been our goal in the past, through implementation of good health measures with the co-operation of all. We are also continuing to advance steadily into the field of other respiratory diseases such as chronic bronchitis, asthma and emphysema, and are becoming increasingly involved in anti-smoking programs."

Unknown

President of the association Mrs. C.W. McKim says, "mention tuberculosis to a roomful of adults and you draw a blank. People know nothing about it and often care less. Many doctors and nurses have never seen a case and are now taking refresher courses to learn the latest treatments. But mention asthma, emphysema, chronic bronchitis, shortness of breath, smokers' cough, difficulty in climbing stairs, chest trouble from various kinds of work, and there isn't one who doesn't know of a relative or friend or neighbor down the street who is not affected one way or another. And all are crying out for help. We are trying to give that help."

This year's mailing of Christmas seals was 56,666 letters to homes and industry.

The cost to the association was 28 cents per letter. The cost to raise one dollar was 26.5 cents with a per capita return in Halton region of 30.5 cents. Although the $60,216.33 is over six per cent above the 1972 return, the association maintains it needs the extra cash to keep up the present activities with the cost of living having risen nine per cent in the same period.

The state of officers for the year 1974-75 is as follows: Executive: Mrs. C.W. McKim, president, Oakville; H.H. Hinton, past president, Acton; J.W. Ostler, vice-president, Milton; J.H. Simpson, honorary treasurer, Burlington.

Cancer campaign goes over top

The cancer campaign in Halton Hills exceeded its quota by over $2,000, campaign chairman June Magnuson reported this week. Quota set for Halton Hills was $15,500.

Mrs. Magnuson attributed the excellent results to the efforts of 600 volunteer workers, the co-operation received from the people of Halton Hills and the news media.

She noted 58 per cent of cancer funds are used for research, 15 per cent for service to patients, 13 per cent for education, three per cent to operate the lodges, five per cent for campaign expenses and six per cent for administration.

In addition to financial support there are thousands of volunteers who give their time and talents during the year to the Cancer Society because they believe cancer can be beaten, Mrs. Magnuson emphasized.

Confused

Who are members?

Halton's Administration and Finance Committee wants to know which members are on the committee.

Member Paul Preston said people come and go and vote on items they are interested in. He claimed councillors should declare which committee they are members of.

During the last regional council meeting, council agreed members could sit on a second committee on a voluntary basis. The matter was referred to the next council meeting.

BIKE RODEO finals are Thursday, and Kevin McLaren of the M. Z. Bennett school is in the running.

DIANA HICKEY, grade five pupil at M. Z. Bennett, is getting her bike checked out before the rodeo by Dorothy Bennett of grade seven. The rodeos are scheduled for Monday, Tuesday and Thursday.

May permits

The value of building permits issued in Halton Hills last month nudged two million dollars.

Housing building almost exclusively in the Acton area accounted for $1,617,732 with 65 houses started.

A medical building in Acton had a permit valued at $153,000 and alterations amounted to $12,000.

The swimming pool boom continued with 41 permits issued during May, bringing the total number of pool permits this year to 86.

From the May total of $1,998,149, the town collected $4,564 in fees.

In the first five months of this year building permits in the whole town totalled $6,356,639.
