Renaissance leader ministry to Ireland

swing into the last three weeks of the election campalgn, another trans-Canada crusade has just concluded in the nation's capital. Milton evangelist Ken Campbell and his team climaxed a coast-tocoast inter-church preaching mission which has included visits to every provincial capital over the past six months, with a Saturday night rally and Sunday services in Ottawa. Designated "Operation Reconciliation," this national evangelistic thrust was proposed, in Campbell's words, "to rouse the church, to lead the nation, to find its soul." The itinerary, which began In Winnipeg last November, took the team, composed of Campbell's long-time friend and colleague, gospel musician Jim Reese, and the

Now to Ireland since the late British evangelist, Tom Reese, attempted the last such intensive cross-Canada crusade-rally tour.

The Team is scheduled to cap off "Operation Reconciliation" with a week of ministry in each of the north and the south of Ireland in mid-summer.

fronteally, in the midst of "Operation Reconciliation" Mr. Campbell found himself thrust into the centre of a swirl of controversy in his own home area, Halton Region, in late February when he protested the visit of "Gay Lib" to a grade 12 health class studying human sexual compatability in the high school his daughters

In what might be termed "Operation Confrontation," Campbell refused to pay the educational portion of his property taxes to profest he termed the "totalitarian secularism" which he claims dominates the public educational system Ontario. The Halton Renaissance Committee, a grass-roots movement of concerned parents and ratepayers "seeking to restore the responsibility of the public educational system to hose who pay for it and entrust their children to it." initiated through Campbell's protest and now non-partisan" Committee is presently preparing a brief for the trustees of Halton ranging teaching methods to the > Recalling the circonstances in which the trip to Ireland was first proposed, Campbett tells of "the little old lady", who approached him at the conclusion of a crusade in the Penticton (B.C.) Peach Bowl Convention Centre, a couple of years ago, and after "giving me a big motherly lug" said: "I've been proving for a spiritual awakening in the Okanagan Valley for years. God has answered our prayers. If He can do it in Ireland. I'm praying that God will send you men to

Campbell noted Duke University's citation upon the conferring of the LL.D. degree on Prime Minister Trudeau, a few weeks ago: "Your aspiration to create a just society gives us confidence that in the global village of the future, Canada will show mankind an example of successful phiralism."

"We are in a position where we could give such moral leadership internationally," says Campbell, "but it is only through the reconciling power of the Gospel of Jesus Christ that we can find the spiritual resources to love God and our neighbour as we ought. That's what's needed most in Canada and in Ireland and in our world today.

While "realistically not Window meldent expecting off two weeks of ministry in Ireland to make much difference in the present climate there," Campbell does believe that their trip "could rouse many Christians, in Canada especially, to pray for the healing of freland's wounds. and that could contribute significantly to a turning of the tide in that troubled beautiful land."

> It's to be hoped that' the Canadian "Prince of Peace Corps" will be successful in some measure as they take "Operation Reconciliation" to Ireland this summer.

Those voting in favor of issuing the permit felt the expansion could be considered an accessory use which made it a legal action.

Urge Milton jail improvements

A Grand Jury report in dicates call areas at the Provincial Jail in Milton are overly warm.

The report also indicates regional council rather than the staff does not have enough time to provide an adequate recreation and exercise program for the prisoners.

Consideration should be given to longer TV hours in the evening or cell lighting to allow reading in the cells, the report said.

Visit courtroom The jury also inspected the provincial court on Brown St. 16The court was in session and we inspected the courtroom to observe the deterioration of the interior walls and ceiling. A portion of the cornice of one wall had fallen just prior to our visit.

Discussing the matter at the public works meeting Wednesday, Regional Chairman Allan Masson said be had authorized repairs to the ceiling at an expense of about $800.

Development Committee Sam Hokannson, a neighbor, complained about the expansion. He suggested the piggery caused pollution of his water supply now and he feared future effects if the operation was expanded.

Questioned about acting without council or committee approval. Masson said he'd sooner face the wrath of
