

THE HALTON COMMITTEE has been at work for several years preparing for this year's big International Plowing Match Sept. 24 to 28. Activity has picked up this past year though, and there were 100 people at the last planning meeting in Master Feeds' auditorium north of Hornby. Above, part of the crowd at a recent meeting.

At work behind the scenes

PROMOTING THIS YEAR'S match at the one last October in Lambton, Halton committee secretary Henry Stanley, chairman Ross Segsworth and ladies' program chairman Charlotte Ironside are pictured being interviewed by a London TV station. Behind them is Halton's popular tent featuring a tearoom.

PLOWING MATCH PUBLICIST George Swann of Milton (left) is pictured with one of his signs that went to an Ontario Plowmen's annual meeting in Toronto last February. His sign points out that the earliest-ever match in the IPM's 61-year history promises warmer and drier weather than at many of the previous matches. With him is Jack Taylor of Burlington, Halton director to the OPA.
