

Putting your best foot forward

Putting your best foot forward is the way these communities have decided to welcome visitors.

For many of them it is the only way they can let travellers, passing through their quiet little town or hamlet, know about what kind of a place they just whisked through.

Every place has something to say which can fit onto a sign preferably "blowing their own horn." Smaller centres find their strongest point is their heritage and longevity while the larger want visitors to know about cultural aspects of their community.

Everyday as we drive along on Ontario's roads and highways we are bombarded with signs giving instructions and a list of do's and don'ts. It is indeed refreshing to see signs can be artistic and informative.
