The third line diversion, approved by Halton Hills council, is almost complete. It is expected the new road will be opened for regular traffic about the first of the Land transfers between the town of Halton Hills and Indusmin quarry were approved, and Indusmin is paying the entire cost of building the new road. It is seven-eighths of a mile long.

Indusmin had left a berm of high earth along the side of the third line, but this bank has been cut down now and a spectacular view of the quarry is revealed.

Once the new road is open, the quarrying will continue right across the old roadway.

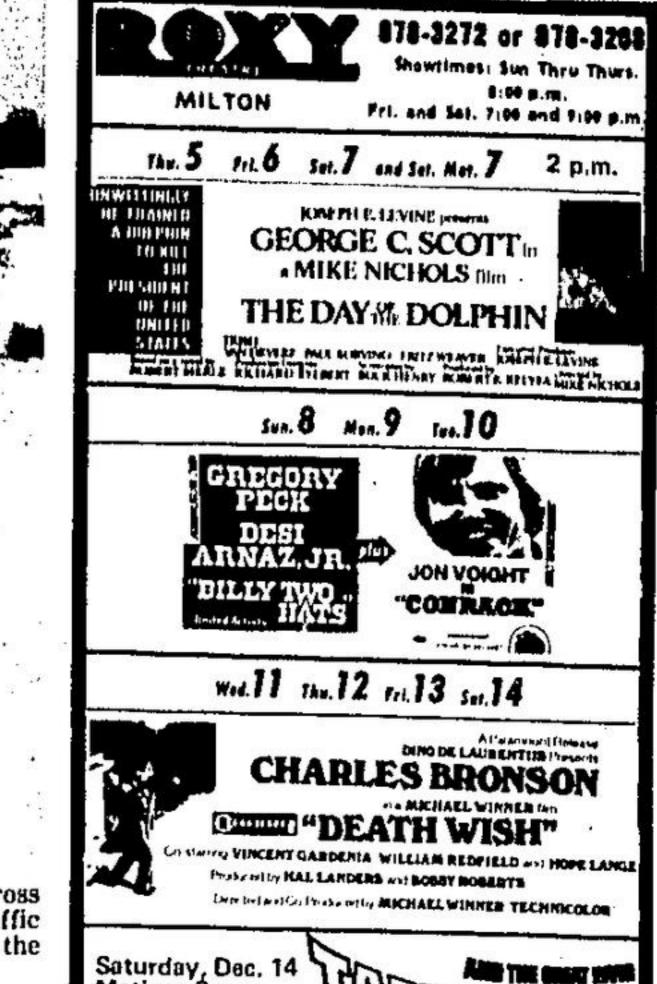

BANK OF LAND usually hid quarrying from the sight of travellers on the third line. However the bank or berm" has now been removed for a short distance, and the full panorma of Indusmin quarrying is revealed. Snow Sunday accented the crags in the
