Not "Police" publication

Police report at least 300 business people in the North Halton area have so far been approached about advertising in a "Police Safety Guide" which has absolutely no connection with local police forces.

The publishers apparently launched their sales campaign in the Milton area, then into Oakville and Georgetown. Halton Regional Police and the OPP anti-racketeers investigators have been trying to track down the firm, without success.

Founder's day set for Erin

Erin Founders' Day celebrations are tentatively set for July 19 and 20 this year. The two-day event will have the help of Festival Ontario, an Ontario government agency operating under the Ontario Arts Council.

The agency provides help to local festivals by providing displays, demonstrations, historical exhibits, and advice.

No courts at school

The latest issue of Halton Education News includes one piece of information which can be explained for Acton readers.

Listed in the school board's plans is cost sharing for tennis courts at Acton high school, according to the board's newspaper. However, the Free Press checked out the item and discovered a sum was to be used if, indeed, the new courts were to be built at the high school.

The location was changed and the tennis courts have already been built at the park.

So the school board had actually no further intention of building courts at the high school.

The issue will go out to homes soon.

Information centre for Ontario Hydro

An information centre will be set up by Ontario Hydro in the former Esquew Township Hall at Stewarttown on Feb. 17 and 18 to provide information for property owners affected by the location of the new transmission line in the segment approaching Milton from the Bruce Generating Station on Lake Huron.

The centre will be manned by Hydro personnel who are conversant with the procedures and policies that will be followed in the acquisition of the required property for the power corridor. Maps and printed material will be available to the public that describe the types of structures, widths of the right-of-way and other facts concerning the line.

The centre will be open to the public from 12 noon until 9 p.m. on Feb. 17 and from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Feb. 18.
