

Scratches and dents no problem for Shop

On July 1, 1974, Dan Kocuk and John Bogala purchased Allan's Collision at Crowson's Corner. By September 15, several changes were made both in the name and the building. Halton Hills Collision was open to the public's scratches, dents and wrinkles.

An $11,000 addition was added to enable more cars to be worked on at one time. With its new room and name it was able to face anything that came its way.

Complete collision repairs, R & M paint jobs, front end alignment, gas and electric welding, 24 hour towing, courtesy cars, and other things are done.

"We can take a total write off and guarantee it 100 per cent. It will be just like new," Dan Kocuk states.

Intake

Danny, John and their five employees work on 10 to 20 cars a week, depending on the size of the job.

All the employees there are either licensed in auto body mechanics or are apprenticing. The apprenticeship takes four years to complete with two eight week sessions at Centennial

College in Toronto.

The reason of the year determines what jobs they are doing the most of in the winter, 80 per cent of their work is collision. In the summer, it drops to 20 per cent, with paint jobs taking up the remaining percent.

The spring is the peak season for paint jobs, according to Danny.

Comments on what most people think about women drivers, or teenagers, Danny has noticed that there is no specific age group of sex trying to ruin cars. He gets the same amount of men as women.

RIES BOERS, the shop foreman at Halton Hills Collision, repairs the body of a car smashed up in a recent accident. This car was classified as a total write-off by the insurance company, but will be repaired to look brand new.

WORKING ON A car is Don Richard of Halton Hills Collision. Don is one of seven men there, who can take a total wreck and transform it into a like-new product.

Accident

A Sunday accident on Highway 25 near 15 Sideroad saw $400 damage to a car driven by Terence Wayne of Acton. The car struck a deer.

Annual meeting at Knox Monday

Following a delicious pot luck supper, the first course of which was supplied by the managers of the church, the congregation of Knox Church met for their annual business meeting on Monday evening.

The Rev. Andrew H. McKenzie opened the meeting with a brief worship and memorial service for the eight members and several adherents who had died during 1974. Calvin McIntyre, a past chairman of the Board of Managers, was chosen to preside over the business meeting and Mrs. Laura C. Housley was named secretary.

Minutes reported a profit of $34,732 in 1974 as compared with $32,206 in 1973. Of this amount $8,643 was given for missionary and benevolent purposes outside of the parish and the boards of the Acton community.

During the year a legacy in the amount of $1,000 had been received from the estate of the late Anne Macdonald of Kitchener, who had maintained her membership in Knox Church over the many years she had resided in the Acton area.

The Board of Managers reported diligence in maintaining the church building during the past year. The entire building had been redecorated, inside and out, the choir room roof had been repaired, and the Centennial sign had been erected on the front lawn. Other important maintenance repairs had been carried out, and the pews had been furnished with new hymn books for the use of the worshippers.

In a busy year the Ladies' Aid had catered for four wedding dinners, seven banquets, and had served lunch to relatives and friends following five funerals. Proceeds of their many enterprises had netted approximately $2,650. From their funds the ladies gave a donation of $1,000 to the Board of Managers towards the cost of painting the church, and in this they were joined by the Daughters of Knox and the Heather Club, each of which contributed $400 for this project.

Budget allocation

There was a general consensus that the congregation should strive to meet in full its accepted General Assembly Budget allocation of $6,000 while also maintaining the present level of gifts to other special appeals for benevolent and missionary purposes, amounting to the direction of giving a dollar for others to match each dollar spent on "itself".

The minister noted, with gratitude, the great improvement in the response to the appeal for Inter Church Aid funds which go to assist people the world over who have been overtaken by some calamity such as drought or rampant disease. He also commended the congregation and the Daughters of Knox for the generous gifts to assist Mrs. Donna J. Housley, Knox's student for the ministry, now completing her second year in theology at Knox College in Toronto.

Three persons were returned to the Board of Managers for a three-year term, namely Helen Jacques, Lillian Macdonald and Henry

Figures given

The Session report indicated there had been 11 new members added to the communion Roll and 20 removed, eight by death, six by certificate and six by revision of the roll. The minister had conducted 28 weddings and had baptized 19 persons, 13 babies and three adults. There had been 19 funerals. The Session in its report noted with satisfaction the progress made in supplying the pews with the new Book of Praise, revised in 1972, as memorials to the dead and in recognition of the living.

Also the thanks of the letters were ruined, as well as part of the sign board. He estimated the damage between $12 and $15.

Mr. Kukken does not mind so much when the letters are only changed around, but of course he objects when actual damage occurs.

Despite the attacks on the sign, Mr. Kukken intends to leave it outside.

Vandals hit

The sign outside the Halton Hills Furniture store has fallen prey to vandalism.

Jake Kukken, proprietor of the store, said that usually, the vandals only change the letters around. However, this weekend more serious damage was done.

Mr. Kukken said that the letters were frozen in the grooves of the sign, so that when they were pulled out, the letters were ruined, as well as part of the sign board. He estimated the damage between $12 and $15.

Meeting W.I. held in library

The last meeting of the Women's Institute of Acton was held in the board room of the library, with Mrs. C. Nellis in the chair.

The meeting was opened with a reading by Mrs. Holmes of the original Ode and Mary Stewart Collect, made in 1904. The minutes were read by Mrs. Hargrave.

The correspondence was read, including a card of thanks from Marjorie Hall, for a gift she received while in hospital. Also read was an appreciation letter from the Musical Committee. The members voted to help the committee with a donation.

Fair

There was a short discussion about the fair, and how the Institute could take part.

Childhood memories of school days were recalled, bringing to mind many pranks of days gone by.

A talk entitled "Citizenship and World Affairs" was given by Mrs. Doris Cooke. Other topics were "Tip Top Love Egged on" and 66 Expectant Fathers."

presented a paper on "Education at all Levels" and "Mission Work on the B.C. Coast", taken from "The Blue Book".

On February 21, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. there will be a course on the Blue Book. Every Institute member is welcome.

There will be an Officers Conference in Waterloo from April 29 to May 1.

The meeting was closed with a prayer, and lunch was served by the conveners for the month.

Sunday fun day

Sunday was a day of fun and outdoor adventure for over 200 Y's Men, Y's Menettes, friends and children who gathered at the farm hill at Tom Shields, located on the First Line of Esquewaug near the golf course.

Toboggans, crazy carpets, flying saucers and ordinary sleighs were part of the up-the-hill and down-again pastime for adults and children. "We had a terrific time," said participants who also agreed that the day was too cold to attempt to change into skating gear to take advantage of the pond facilities, which ambitious Y's Men had cleared earlier in the day.

Chuckles

Festivities started about 2 p.m. in the afternoon and ran on until around 4:30 p.m. An outside fire provided the setting for barbecued hotdogs along with warming coffee and hot chocolate. Plans for the event say another day of sleighing fun will be planned soon again. The next one will include a pot-luck supper at the home of a Y's Menette. Chuckles of the afternoon were provided when one of the dads took the hill, riding miniature plastic skis.

Found

Two missing juveniles from Acton were located in Hamilton and returned home. They were reported missing Feb. 6 and located Feb. 7.

Taxes

Interim tax bills are now all out. They went in the mail Friday and Monday.
