

Carnival ends arena season

 Debra Day, Kim Weir, Lisa Johnston, Karen McKnight, Karen McEachern, Christine Baginski, Suzanne Rosenbersky, Yvonne Blain, Lynda Sawden, Susan Kinal, Kim Rogers, Debbie Turkosz, Michelle Scott, Marlene Lott, Heather Michie, Janet Britton, Lori Jamieson.
 Guest skaters who impressed were Brenda Bridgeman and Rick Peltit, novice and junior pairs winners.

KELLY BUCHANAN SEEMS to have six legs as she portrayed one of the Shirley Temple Dolls. Actually, four (two each) of the legs belong to Sharon Turkosz and Linda Osso.

THESE YOUNG LADIES were busy as bees at the skating carnival Saturday. Back row, Debbie Johnston and Joanne Robins and front row, Heidi Marttala and Lesley Soden (Queen Bee) take a rest from their busy schedule.

BONNIE, WITHOUT the Clyde was on hand Saturday at the skating carnival. They weren't on their violent rampage which made them so famous. Instead, they were skating up a storm. The first four are Joanne Hearns, Lynne Fisher, Sheila Cook and Laurie DeBruyn.

PHEW, SOMEONE left the door open and the skunks got into the arena on Saturday. Dennis Swinamer played a not too smelly skunk at the skating carnival, and the ladybugs in the background don't seem to concern about his presence.

LYNNE FISHER, with coat on, zips up Joanne Hearns while preparing for their performance Saturday at the skating carnival.

Canvassers for local cancer drives have been held up by unexpected winter weather. Yellow daffodils on lapels are good reminders that campaigns are making rounds.
