

Handicap problems discussion

Representatives of the "Friends-In-Deed" the area group for the physical handicapped, are attending a seminar in Halton Centennial Manor on May 13 in preparation for a conference in Toronto on May 22.

Five topics will be discussed by the same number of seminar groups and the problems will be taken to this conference. The Toronto session is province-wide and seminars are being held throughout the province to help local groups of handicapped people identify their needs.

Steps One of the problems to be brought up by the representatives of Friends-In-Deed is the fact that the handicapped cannot go shopping like ordinary people as they cannot maneuver the curbs on the way to the stores, and the steps once there. Washroom doors are not wide enough for the wheelchairs to get through, and cubicles are not large enough to accommodate wheelchairs. Some medical centres and doctor's offices are unattainable by the handicapped because of the steps leading up to them.

Sudbury has same concern

Clerk-administrator Doug Pritchard told finance and personnel committee he has had no reply to his letter to the Ministry asking about the legislation concerning motor assisted vehicles. He had expressed council's concern following receipt of a letter from Acton O.P.P. Sudbury is circulating a resolution to other councils showing the same concern for licensing of these vehicles.

Old-fashioned circus coming

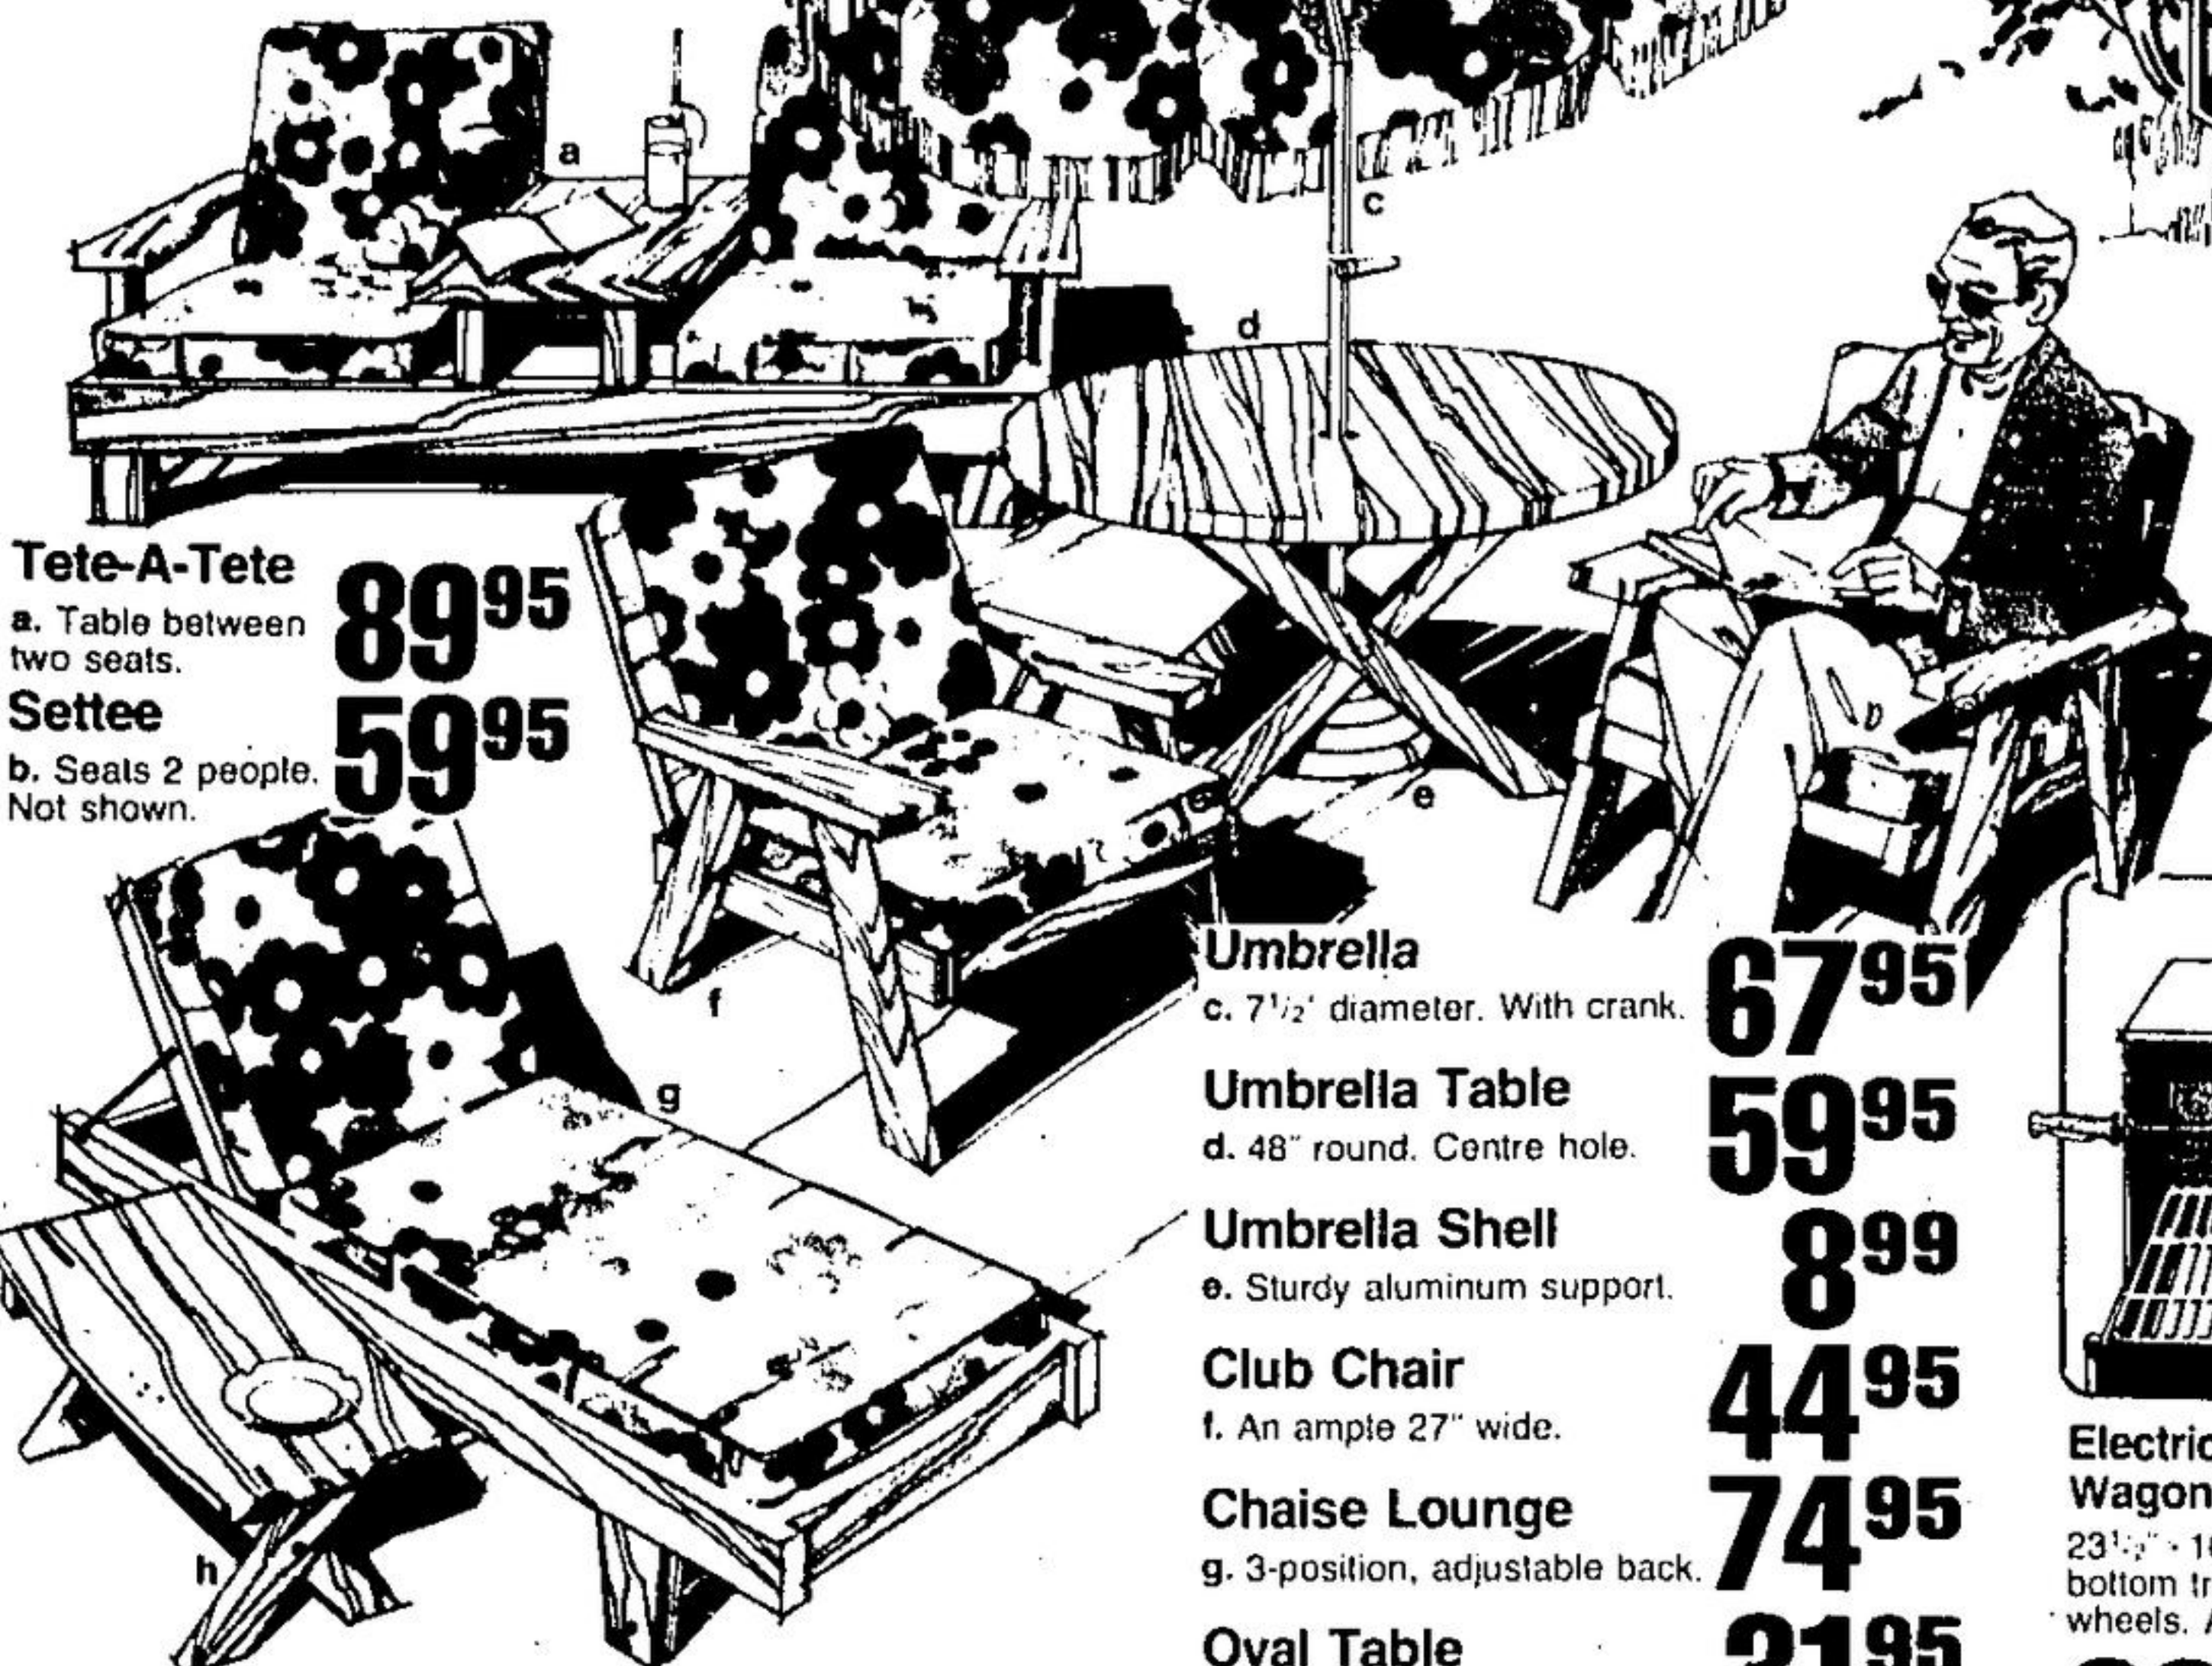

The Circus Big Top will raise in Acton on Tuesday, May 20, when the Chamber of Commerce sponsors the local appearance of the Royal Bros. Circus. The show grounds will be Prospect Park, and circus morning will be a vivid scene of tracks, tents, animals and working men as the circus hurries to erect its tents for performances at 6 and 8 p.m. Adults wishing to relive childhood memories or to introduce their children to the magic of the Big Top, are invited to the showgrounds early circus morning to view the activities and to watch the feeding of the animals. "You won't even be asked to carry water for the elephant".

This year's circus performance has 15 acts. There are performing monkeys and poodles, prancing ponies, clowns, juggling, wire walkers, acrobats and aerialists. The best part about this circus is that they care about families. That's why there are no reserved seats. If you buy your tickets in advance from any member of the Chamber and Commerce, you'll save enough to pay for the peanuts and cotton candy.
