Families win Olympic draw

A young Acton couple who bought their first lottery ticket struck it rich last week and had the thrill of seeing their lucky number flashed on the screen of the Sunday night Olympic Lottery draw television show, making them the winners of an easy $5,000.

Cathy and Harold Andrews of 200 Churchill Rd. were the lucky couple. Cathy says she and her husband don't usually buy tickets on anything and buying the lottery ticket was a first for purchasing any ticket together.

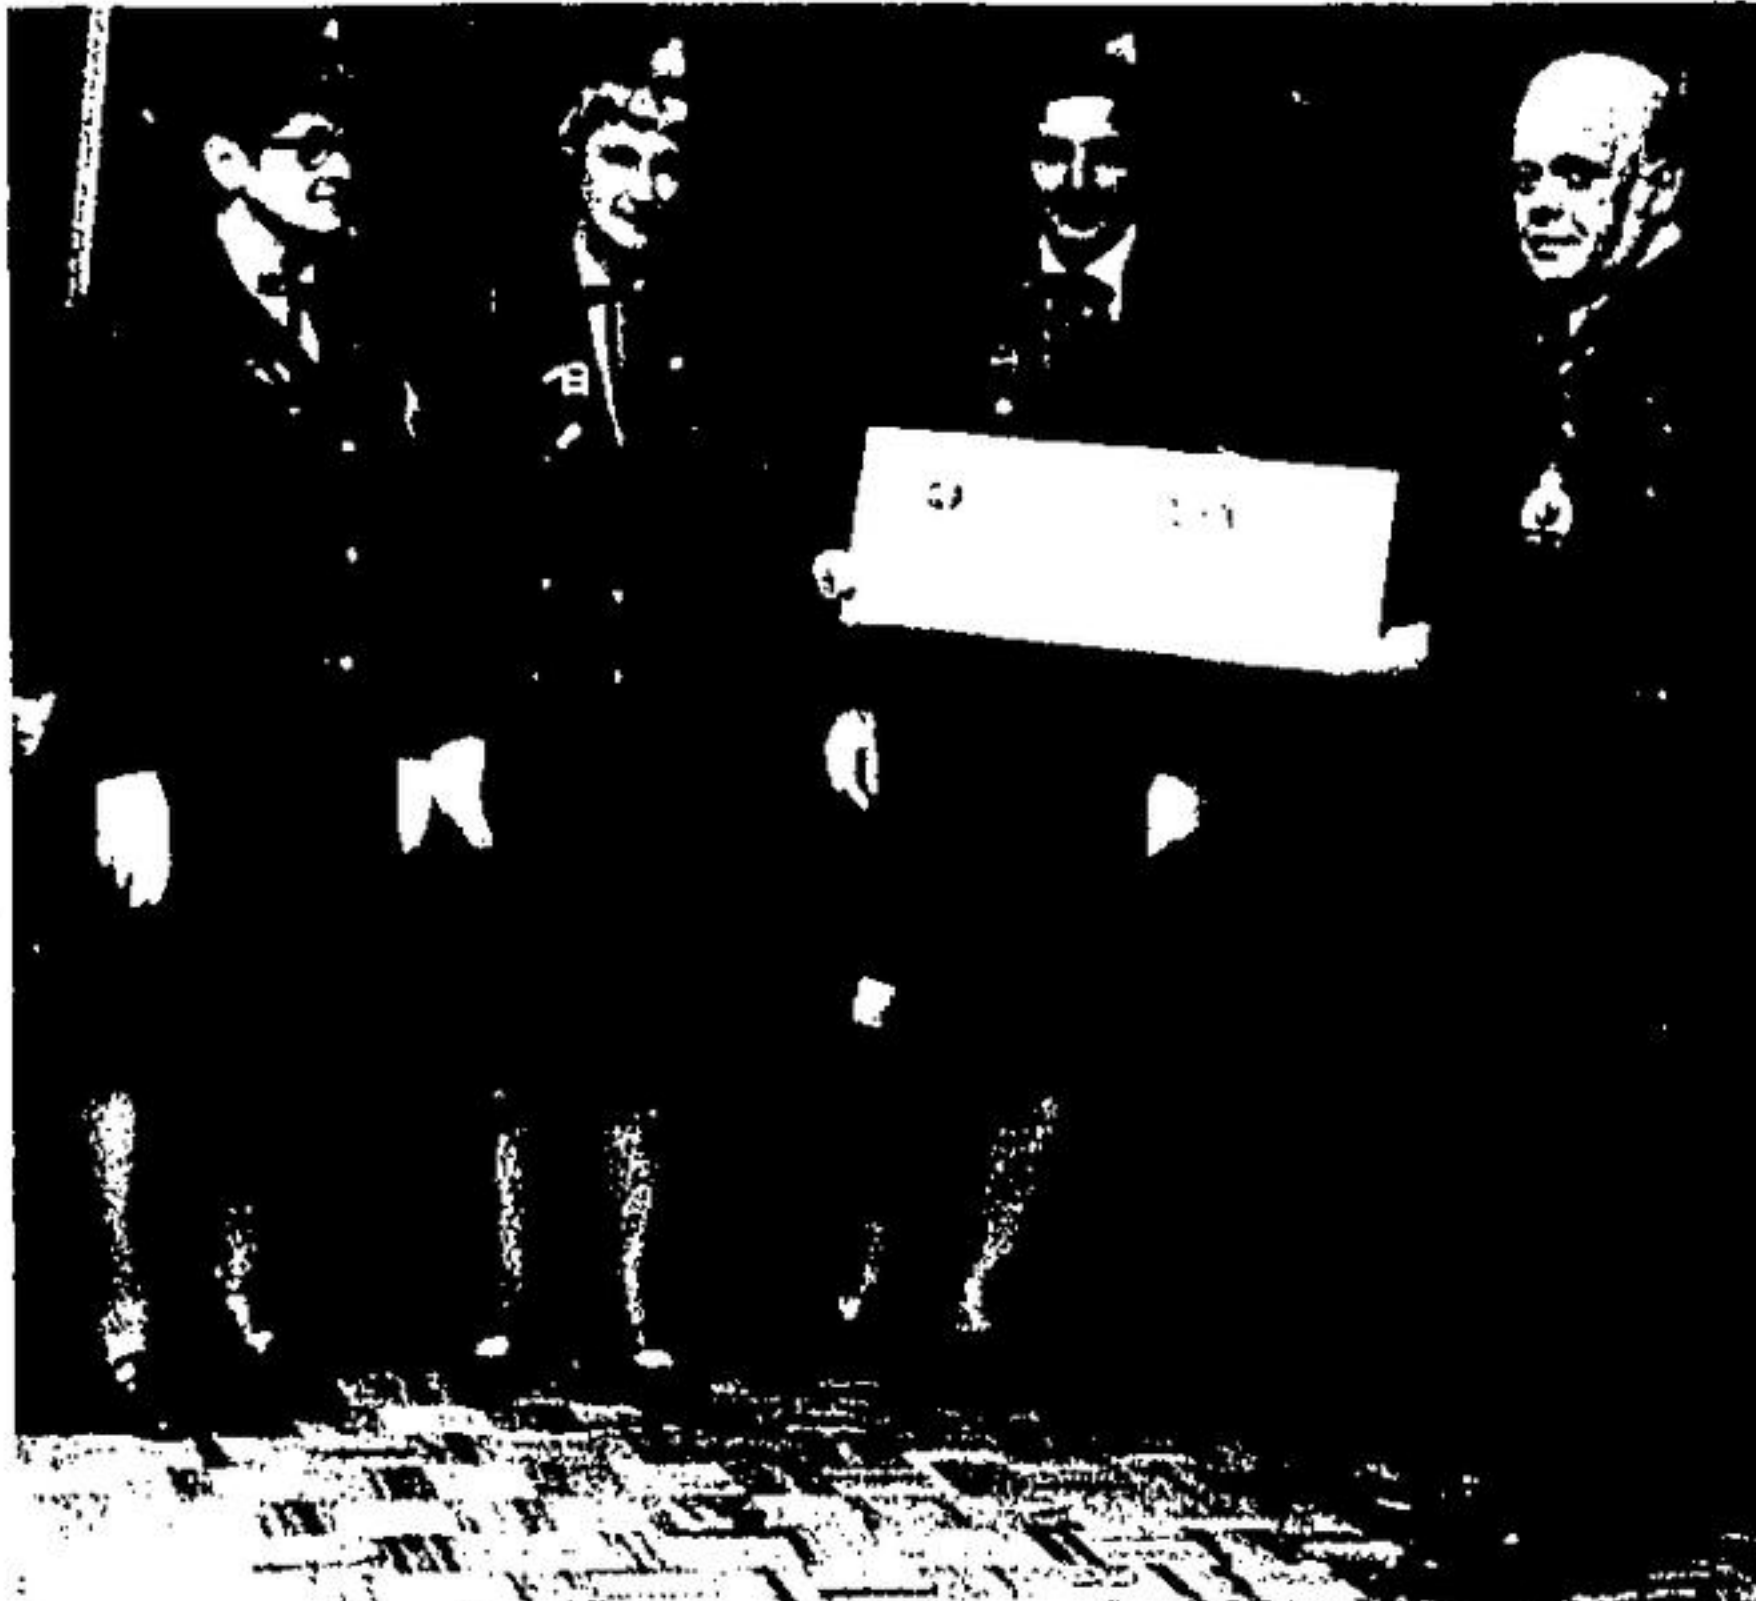

The excited housewife says she and her husband plan on putting their winnings towards a down-payment on a house. They have one little son, age 16 months.

Another Acton area family who have never before invested in the Canadian lotteries also hit it lucky. Two of eight tickets they purchased were also drawn Sunday night.

Gus and Margot Bollert of R.R. 4, Acton, purchased one ticket conscientiously each week for eight weeks prior to the June draw. It was a three-way split with three members of their family involved in the purchase. Mr. and Mrs. Bollert and their eldest daughter, Heike.

Mrs. Bollert says that in Germany, where they lived before coming to Canada, there were always lottery tickets being sold and she and her husband used to buy many of them. "But we never bought in Canada before," said the exuberant winner. She was watching the T.V. show on Sunday night and knew they had won. She said it came as a real surprise and that some of the money will be re-invested in more tickets.

As well as the Bollerts, there were quite a few $100 winners in the draw from this locality.

HELEN FOWLER, Fern Shultis and Lucy Synnott, president of the Legion Ladies' Auxiliary, present a token cheque for $10,000 to past Legion president Robert Angell. The cheque represented the full amount given to the Legion by the ladies over the past year.

Lights, screen at town parks

Sports buffs will be happy if a recommendation of the administration committee is approved by Halton Hills council.

The recommendation calls for fencing and lighting at the Acton and Emmerson Park tennis courts, ball screening at Hornby Park, Prospect Park, Acton, Limehouse Conservation Area, and Diamond C at the Fairgrounds Park, Georgetown.

Lighting at C diamond in the Fairgrounds is also included in the recommendation.

"It's all in the budget," stated Councillor Ric Morrow, as the committee approved the calling of bids. Council has yet to give its endorsement.

Committees tour sites

Acton and Georgetown Recreation Advisory Committees held a joint meeting on Thursday and toured some of the recreation facilities in Halton Hills.

The Acton arena was first on the list with Harold Townsley, arena manager, giving the guided tour.

Prospect Park, the site of the last Acton recreation meeting, was next on the agenda.

Sir Donald Mann Park was then toured by the group. The Acton pool was next, with special attention being focused on the vandalism in the boys' changeroom.

Emerson Park, Georgetown and the fairgrounds were under close scrutiny before the group headed out toward Cedarvale Park and community centre.

The Erin Agricultural Society recognized the 30 years of dedicated service of Elmer McKinnon and held a reception for the retiring manager and his wife, Grace, at the Erin Coliseum

Joseph Gibbons Park was viewed before heading out toward the new Gordon Alcott Memorial Arena where the new recreation offices are going to be.

The indoor swimming pool at the high school was visited next, on the way to the old Georgetown arena.

Visits to the Stewarttown Hall and Hornby Hall ended the tour before the bus headed back to Acton.

million in costs which will no doubt be passed on to consumers.

Mr. Timbrell's announcement said the Government wished to acknowledge and recognize the sincere concern of farmers and residents along the middle portion of the route and his ministry had undertaken over the past months, a review of the planning processes and alternatives leading up to approval of the route. When the review commenced Timbrell requested that hydro cease all preliminary work and it was done.

However, he said the delay in work will also provide a penalty to the electric users of the province. If power from Bruce is not available, "we will incur the cost of generating power by alternate and more expensive fossil-fuel means."

Refuse request for fencing

With Councillor Len Cox opposing the motion, Halton Hills Council works committee voted 3-1 Monday night not to enter into agreement with Mrs. B. Henry of Knox Ave. to participate in the costs of a fence being erected on private property between her property and Knox Presbyterian Church.

Councillor Ern Hyde led the opposition to Mrs. Henry's request for the cost sharing, claiming that since the land abutting the Henry property is owned by the church and not by the town, Mrs. Henry should be negotiating with the church.

Committee chairman Councillor Joe Hurst explained that the town of Acton once owned a 36 foot wide strip of property there from Knox Ave. back to the Pioneer Cemetery, but that the strip was sold to Knox Church in 1962 for $100 when church expansion plans were announced. He said the town did retain a 20 foot right of way over the land back to the cemetery. He added that the town also had an agreement with the church to use the parking lot there for municipal purposes.

Councillor Cox maintained that if the town has a right of way over the property, it is obligated to pay half the costs of the erection of a fence.

"A right of way is not our property," argued Councillor Hyde. "There is no way we should be involved in this." When Councillor Hurst explained that according to the agreement with the church, the town must maintain the parking lot, Councillor Mike Armstrong asked if maintenance includes fencing.

Councillor Cox said it would be in his eye, but Councillor Hyde maintained it wouldn't be in his.

"We don't have the right to fence there, so why should we be paying half. There's a grove of trees there that's pretty well impregnable. It's kind of like putting asphalt on top of a shingled roof," he said.

Councillor Hurst said that in his opinion Mrs. Henry should apply to the church first and the church in turn request assistance from the town, according to the maintenance agreement.

"Replacing is nothing more than maintenance in my opinion," Councillor Cox interjected. "The fence has deteriorated to the point it needs replacing. In my opinion putting up half of that fence is maintaining the property."

Councillor Hyde concluded that there is no way neighbors can force each other to put up a fence unless one or the other is keeping stock.

Councillors Hurst and Armstrong voted along with Councillor Hyde not to enter an agreement with Mrs. Henry, while Councillor Cox opposed the motion. Mrs. Henry is to be advised of the decision.

Wants steel doors on park building

Works committee members were disturbed by a suggestion from town engineer Peter Morris Monday night that either the works or recreation departments might need to hire someone to watch over the block building in Prospect Park, after washrooms there are renovated. The building has been a prime target for vandals in the past.

Councillor Ern Hyde said he had a rather sick situation in mind when council spends good money to upgrade things, then sees them smashed by vandals.

"If we're going to spend money on washroom facilities, we should look into getting some indestructible steel. The building should have heavy locked doors and it should be up to the ball teams to pick up the key and return it afterwards. In other words, they police it," he suggested.

Councillor Mike Armstrong said there is no way a works department employee could be taken off a job at 11 at night to go and lock the building up.

Councillor Len Cox questioned whose responsibility care of the building should be.

"Surely the recreation department is responsible for something more than programming and fluttering about," he said. "They get everything they want and we end up looking after it."

Councillor Joe Hurst, who represents Ward 1 (Acton) pointed out that washrooms in the building could be used more on a Sunday, than just at a ballgame.

Engineer Morris and recreation director Doug Colleson are to meet and bring a recommendation to council on the problem.

Ontario would be between $3 million and $33 million per year in 1977 and would rise to between $39 million and $41 million per year in 1979.

Mr. Timbrell's announcement also reviewed the problem of Niagara Escarpment crossings and the recommendation of 401 Highway and Limehouse for a second as passages.

"I emphasize... that this was an important part of Dr. Solandt's report. The Government accepts Dr. Solandt's recommendations for the Limehouse-Georgetown transmission line and sees no reason to make any further study of this segment of the line. We are fully convinced Dr. Solandt did an intensive review and his findings remain valid," the Minister said in his statement.

"Only a small portion of the overall route—between Colbeck and Limehouse constitutes a new right-of-way which has not been independently reviewed or which does not follow an existing route," Timbrell says.

"The Government has authorized and directed the Environmental Hearing board to review information pertaining to that portion of the approved hydro transmission route, Bradley Junction to Georgetown, between Point 33 near Colbeck and Point 95 near Limehouse and conduct the necessary public meetings to determine if the selected alignment between these points can be modified in any way that, having regard for reasonable cost, will minimize the impact on the agricultural land and undesirable effects on the environment.

Mr. Timbrell said meetings will likely begin about the middle of July. The Government also requested Ontario Hydro to delay any further activity "in order that the environmental review process can be held and the people of the area can be heard."

The announcement names Erin, East Garafraxa and East Lutherville as the review areas and suggests it is doing it in spite of the extra cost of realignment.

What a milestone! Dr. Arthur Kenney of Vancouver attended the 60th anniversary reunion of his graduating class in dentistry at the University of Toronto last Saturday! Dr. Kenney graduated in 1915.

He and his wife were in Acton last week visiting his sister, Miss Nora Kenney, Church St., and have left now to visit their daughter at Lahr, Germany, who is married to Maj. F. Kohler, the editor of the force's newspaper.

Dr. Kenney was in the service in World War One, and practiced dentistry for a while in Ontario before moving to Maple Creek, Saskatchewan, where he spent many years. He and his wife have retired and are living now in Vancouver.

Among those from out-of-town who were back for the 50th anniversary service of the United Church were Mr. and Mrs. J. Reid, Hamilton; Mrs. Stella Adamson, Galt, sisters of guest soloist Norman Gibson, Betty Clement of Milton and Ruth, Mr. and Mrs. Harper of Guelph. Mr. Gibson's wife was here from Milton, too.

A big crowd is hoped for this Saturday, June 14, when the Halton County Radial Railway holds a carnival to raise money for the museum. The site is on the Guelph Line, along the old radial line which once ran through town.

As well as the usual street car rides there will be bazaar items, games of chance, refreshment booths, etc. For a day's outing, it's really different. The old railway cars and street cars are fascinating to people of all ages.

Grade 12 and 13 students had a pre-graduation dance Friday at the golf club. Teachers joined the soon-to-be graduates for the evening of dancing to music by a disc jockey.

Firefighter associations across Canada have been actively involved in projects to raise funds for the fight against muscular dystrophy. The Acton firefighters canvass each fall to Acton homes.

This Saturday in Guelph, the Guelph Professional Fire Fighters Association, CJOY Radio and McDonald's Restaurants will be holding an All Kids Carnival at Riverside Park off Woolwich St. The carnival will begin at noon and run till 5 p.m. Ronald McDonald will also be on hand to entertain kiddies.

Employees of the Halton Board of Education honored Jim Singleton prior to his retirement as director of education for the county. He was presented with a painting of his home.

Chain picnic tables stop rafting on lake

Swimmers who think it's fun to throw picnic tables in Fairy Lake, Acton, will have a hard time, if a recommendation made by Halton Hills administration committee is implemented.

The committee suggested they be chained to a rod three feet in the ground, sunk in cement.

Recreation director Doug Collison did not blame only children, but said adults too, were using the tables as rafts, sometimes carrying the tables 100 yards to the water.

He said the works department said the clay soil would not hold a rod, so the only solution was a cement pad.

By-law limits number of hunting licences

A committee of Milton Council Monday night approved a new by-law to permit the hunting of pheasants, rabbits and foxes in open season in the ward three area of town.

Ward three lies west of the Town Line and includes the former Nassagaweya plus the area between Steeles Ave. and Derry Rd. W., which was formerly part of Burlington. However, no hunting would be permitted within the Village of Campbellville itself.

Council must still approve the by-law, number 10-75, passed unanimously by the administration committee on a motion by Councillor Brad Clements.

Residents of the Town of Milton will pay $2.20 for a hunting licence, while non-hand to entertain kiddies.

Mark out parking spaces

Works committee of Halton Hills Council has met the Halton Hills Parking Authority halfway on a request for the painting of parking spaces on portions of Acton streets.

The committee voted Monday night to paint spaces on the north side of Mill St. between Main and Frederick, on the south side of Mill between Main and John and on Main between Knox and Church.

The parking authority had asked for parking spaces to be painted as well on portions of Bower, John, Church and Willow streets.

Councillor Ern Hyde thought spaces should be properly marked off in the business section of town, although Councillor Joe Hurst said he can understand the request for Bower, since many people still go to the Acton Post Office on that street.

Councillor Len Cox said he didn't think the town should be marking off spaces in residential areas.
