

Brenda Davidson and Bev Smith scrap paint off the windows at the Glen Williams Hall.

David Marcoux conducts Acton's Children's Band.

Acton's Children's Band participants do their thing.

Karen Herrington tidies up after children in C.A.P. '75.

Memories from the O.F.Y. album

Opportunity for Youth grants totalled $30,190 for the North Halton area. Twenty-nine secondary and post secondary students are employed in the six grants.

Georgetown has three grants. C.A.P. '75 (Creative Activities for Preschoolers) has six students working for it. They received $5,500 to set up a recreation centre for youngsters in the town at Knox Presbyterian Church.

Divertissement Pour Enfants, with seven employees, received a grant of $7,530. They have produced a playground-nursery for area children with sports, cooking and arts and crafts as some of their activities. They can be found in the Sacre Coeur church.

Glen Williams Hall Renovations fills the time of six students, with $4,830 in grants.

The name describes the purpose.

Six students in Milton have opened a junior Chamber of Commerce on a $4,455 grant. The purpose of the project is to set up an information centre for the town and surrounding area. They are located in the old railway station which has been moved behind the O.P.P. office.

S.C.A.P. (Senior Citizens' Assistance Program) in Acton is set up to help elderly people and the handicapped. Such chores as painting, housework, gardening, sewing, or just providing companionship fill the schedule of four students. They received a grant of $4,325. They have a Mill St. office.

Four Acton students received a grant of $3,550 to teach local children the reading of music, the origin of music, its history and composers. Their tunes can be heard coming from the Acton Music Centre.

David Clarke plays with children in C.A.P. '75.

Pauline Casey serves Martin Labonte and Liette Chasson in Divertissement Pour Enfants.

Kathy Haines looks at p