

Antique Market Aber

A trip to the Aberfoyle Antique Market is a perfect way to spend a sunny Sunday afternoon in the fall. From May to mid-October the grounds off Highway 6 north of Highway 401 are crowded with visitors. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The market features dozens of booths where independent vendors display everything from old phonograph records to real finds in antique furniture. It's a great place to take the kids for a live history lesson.

On the grounds the Aberfoyle General Store features local produce, natural foods, crafts and unusual, hard-to-find items.

Artisans' Village

Aberfoyle Artisans' Village shows 15 craftspeople displaying and demonstrating their talents. There's pottery, jewellery, pine furniture, candles, toys, batik, macrame, plants, weaving, quilts and metal-work.

The Slaughterhouse serves home cooked meals to be eaten either inside or out. It's also open as a coffee house Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights with musicians playing.

The kids enjoy an afternoon at the market hunting amid the old treasures.

Inside the Slaughterhouse home-cooked meals are served.

Fresh fruit and vegetables

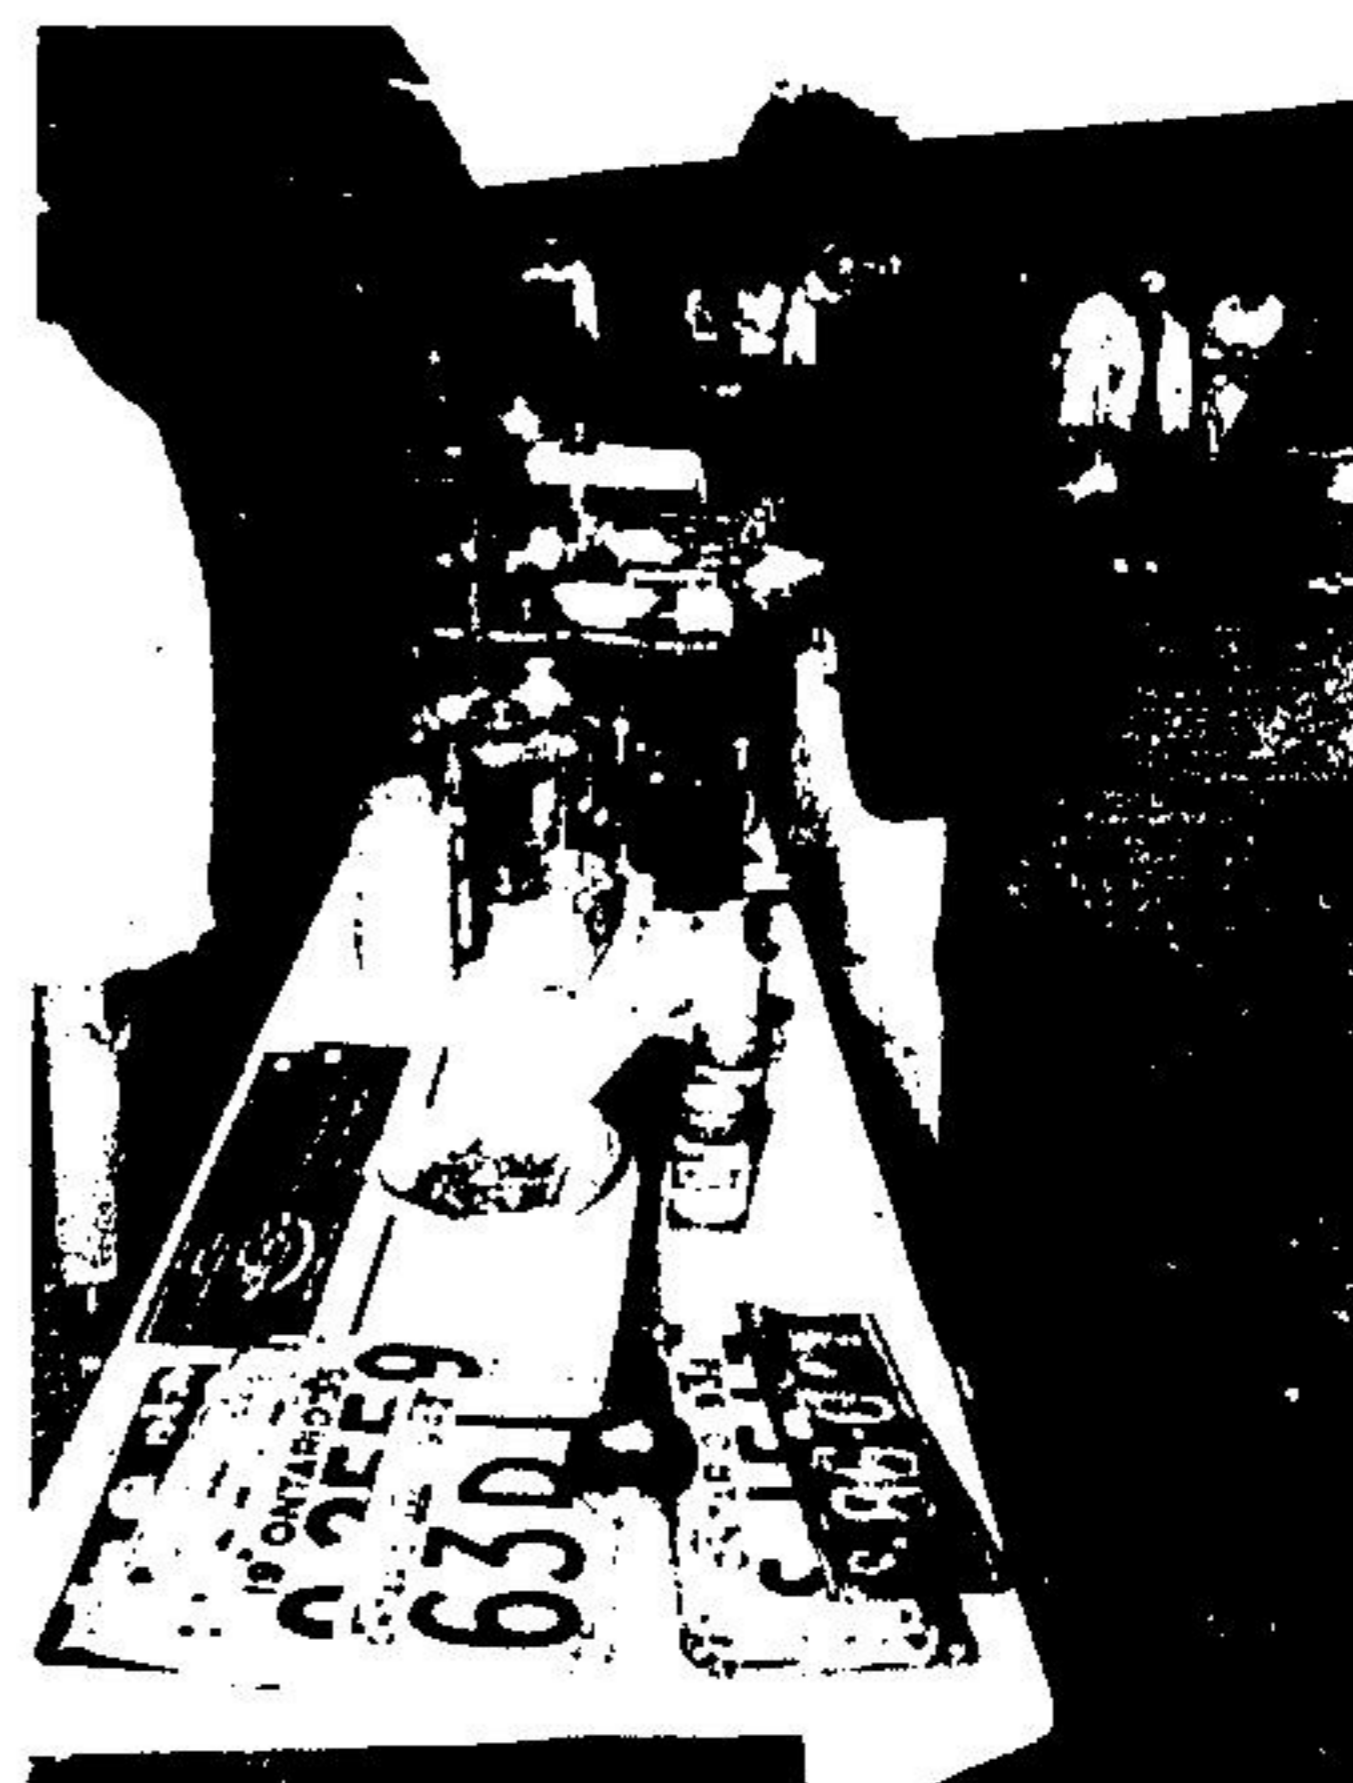

You name it, they've got it

Looks like she's found something interesting in that old pile of books and records.

Fresh corn on the cob tastes good when eaten outside.

From license plates to jars, they're all at Aberfoyle.

The setting is perfect for strolling and trying out an old bath
