by Anne Pickering

Time passes so quickly, October is almost over and with the approach of November, the pool celebrates its first birthday.

With the cold weather on-set, the men's sauna has been fixed in the nick of time. The sauna for adults and children accompanied by adults.

Plans are finalized for our aquatic show. The date set is Friday, December 12, 7-9 p.m. Following an exciting, lively and more than likely amusing and entertaining evening there will be free public swimming for all those who attend. By the way, the cost to attend the show is also free.

This gala event will include a variety of swimmers from various clubs and lesson groups demonstrating what they've learned. Our lifeguards will also participate, showing off many rescue skills and techniques.

Water Safety is sure to drop in before the night is through so kids you'd better be ready with your water safety rules.

If you've been wondering what's been happening at the pool during the past year—you'd better be there.

Our apology to all the girls and women who are still taking cold showers. The hot water valve is promised in the near future.

Rule
The water safety rule of the week is, "Never dive into unknown waters". It's hard to understand why any person would knowingly plunge head first into water of unknown depth. But they do—in the often murky waters of oceans, lakes, rivers, ponds and quarries. Even in swimming pools, with their clear water, people are killed or paralyzed diving into them. One must look before he leaps at all times when entering a pool.

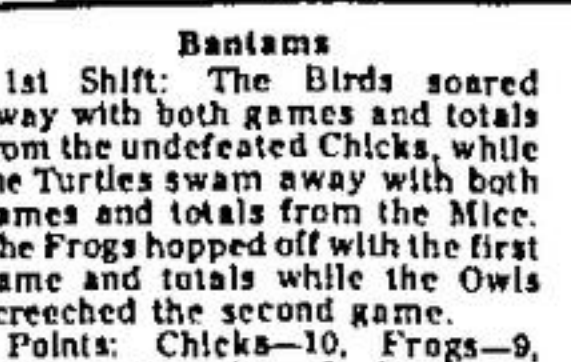

Another excellent safety precaution is to check the water depth marking and whether the water level is high or low. All supervised beaches and pools are clearly marked with the depth. In most tragic cases of death or paralysis, water safety experts are convinced that "diving error" was responsible for many of them.

SATURDAY FISHING trip provided fine 15-pound salmon for a group including Morley Ellis, 13, David Ellis, eight (above) with their father Don Ellis and Tom Feenstra. They're not telling where.
