

Resident claims laws aren't enforced

In response to a letter from G. A. Harrap, 16 St. Albans Drive, Halton Hills works committee is going to study parking problems on that street.

In addition the committee is going to dig out the Dillon report dealing with Acton parking to see what it says about problems in the downtown area.

Mr. Harrap complained about parking in front of his home where, he says, the number of cars parked makes it difficult for him to get in and out of his driveway.

He was also concerned about the number of trucks which stop in the downtown area. He claims it is a contravention of the town's by-law but it was noted at the Monday works committee meeting that there are provisions in the Highway Traffic Act allowing trucks to stop downtown.

Mr. Harrap claims many violations of traffic by-laws are not being enforced.

SMOKE POURS out of the chimney of the W. H. Storey glove works building which was situated on Bower Avenue, Acton. The building was razed for the erection of the new post office.

When this picture appeared in the Free Press August 3, 1965, the caption below read: "This is one of the many pretty views which prevail in and about Acton. It was taken from the old G. T. R. culvert, and the water scene in the foreground is Corporation Pond, the property of the town. The most prominent building is the glove factory of Messrs. W. H. Storey and Son, whose extensive output of superior gloves, mitts and gauntlets are to be found in every part of this broad Dominion, from the Atlantic to the Pacific. To readers at a distance it may be of interest to know the other points shown. Commencing at the right the tall chimney is that of the corporation's electric power house, next ex-Councillor I. Francis' fine residence is shown, then there are to be seen indistinct outlines of the bellfries of St. Alban's and Knox churches. Proceeding to the left, past the apple orchard and the big willows, the roof of the residence of D. Henderson M.P. on Bower Ave., appears, and then the roof and tower of the town hall. Proceeding to the left of the glove factory ex-Councillor White's residence is shown, and then three or four of the residences in Syndicate Terrace. Over these there appears the pediment of the new Free Press building and one of the pinnacles of the United Church."

Hinton reports

A charter member of the Board of Governors of Sheridan College, Bert Hinton reported on his nine year term with the board at a meeting of Halton Regional Council Wednesday.

Mr. Hinton is serving as chairman of the board in 1975. An Acton resident and former Halton Warden, Mr. Hinton reported on the expansion and development of the college since its opening in 1967.

In 1975, 20,000 people registered for night courses alone at the eight Halton and Peel campuses. Mr. Hinton noted the colleges provided job oriented courses and said that in 1974, 551 students graduated. Research indicated that 96.5 per cent of those graduates were employed by March of 1975.

In addition to serving as a member and finally a chairman of the Sheridan board, Mr. Hinton is a charter member and president of ACAATO (Association of Colleges of Applied Arts and Technology of Ontario).

Mr. Hinton was appointed to the board as a representative of Halton County Council and later by Halton Regional Council.

He suggested that new appointees to the board would do well to have a background in either municipal politics or as an accountant.

Old bell

The old school bell that called students to Waterloo school in Esqueving for many years still sits in the Esqueving fire hall on the Seventh line.

According to a letter from Lloyd Fisher, a trustee on the former Esqueving school board, the bell was taken down when the school was closed, and was supposed to be erected on a cairn at the Esqueving municipal building.

He asked Halton Hills administration committee to check its present whereabouts and do something about having the bell mounted on a cairn. He said he understood there may be a new municipal building and suggested it be placed there. Deputy Clerk Delmar French confirmed the bell was still in the fire hall, and the committee recommended the special building committee look after it.
