Acton high notes

by Jennifer Rowe

Everyone's working hard... or at least have lots to do at the high school this week. With report cards on Thursday and Christmas holidays in the air, both teachers and students are busily planning for the few weeks that are left.

Examinations are coming up for grades 12 and 13 students in December. Better hit the books!

Last Wednesday the student council sock hop was quite a success and proved to be a good idea for bus and town students alike on a short period day.

No limit Well, the sun went down last Wednesday, however the Outers did not hike down with it. Last week I reported to you that a sundown hike was planned by this group. This was an error on my part, and so trusting that the sun goes down this Wednesday we should see the Outers hiking along with it. Is there no limit to the energy of an Outer? I don't think there is. On Saturday, November 22, these energetic people were out rock climbing at Hattiesnake Point. I wonder if they take "Geritol" every morning to keep them going?

School trip On Friday, November 21, Clare Henderson and Miss Sue Baker took their English classes to the Science Centre in Toronto. This is always a popular place for students to go. It definitely proves the theory that doing is understanding and learning.

Mothers, if you think your son's or daughter's bedroom is bad you should take a look at his or her locker. This is the teachers got the job of doing on Monday as they supervised the students in a locker clean-out. Remember last week's tuna fish sandwich that you couldn't find!

Students on field trip to Toronto

Students of Mrs. Levy's Painting and Drawing Courses spent an active day in Toronto on Nov. 6. They first viewed the 300 Treasures of Wildlife Art now on display at the Royal Ontario Museum. Animals and birds were all zoologically accurate, but are definitely art forms of varied media and of different cultures. The display is on until Dec. 14. After visiting various art stores in the area, the group headed for the Art Gallery of Ontario for lunch and a tour of the one-year-old Gallery. The Gallery's main show was an exhibit of artist Pavis de Chavannes, a French artist who painted prior to the French Impressionists. Most of them enjoyed the new Gallery more than they enjoyed Pavis' work. The guides pointed out similarities in his work to that of the Impressionists. The students saw art by Gauguin and Picasso and the permanent show of French Impressionist paintings, as well as modern Expressionists.

M.Z. Bennett weekly news

By Sherry Hilliday and Denise Paton

The girls did very well in the volleyball tournament at O.S.D. but they missed first place. Better luck next time. They came second. We would like to especially thank Mr. Murphy and Mr. Bradshaw for the wonderful job they did in training us.

The boys' volleyball team played Robert Little and won three games to two. Mrs. Bradshaw (BA teacher) is running a grade seven merrymen club at the school.

The grade sixes are doing Christmas activities at the school. Mr. Bradshaw and Mrs. Titon planned it. It will last until December 19.

The program takes an hour every day. They have 12 groups and 12 activities. Some of the groups are called cranberries, fruit cakes, mistletoes, hollies, reindeer and shortbreads. The parent volunteers are: Mrs. Atkinson, who is helping with the gingerbread men cooking group; Mrs. Malloy, who is helping with the stuffed toy-making group and Mrs. Ager who is helping with the Christmas stories reading group. There will also be high school volunteers.

In the front hall, the students have constructed a seven foot Santa Claus which will be papier mache and painted. Mr. Price put up the chicken wire, body and wooden platform. Santa will be completed in five weeks.

The activities are writing group, research Christmas customs around the world, listening (Christmas stories), Drama, North Pole news (live performances over the P.A. system from the North Pole), constructing Christmas cards and a puzzle group.

Some of the primary classes will be having a bake sale and white elephant sale for their coming trip

Slippery roads

Halton Hills Works Department trucks were out yesterday (Tuesday) sanding and salting the roads. The first snow of the season caused some havoc for motorists, in spite of week-long snow warnings.
