Gwen Jeffares retires this year

Halton Board of Education nurse at both St. John's announced Thursday Gwen Jeffares will retire this summer after serving for 18 years as principal of Sunshine School for the Trainable Retarded, Hornby.

Trustee Len Crozier praised Mrs. Jeffares' 19 years of work with trainable refarded students in Halton and described her as "pioneer in the teaching and care of the trainable retardeds."

She went to Sunshine School in February 1957 and the next fall became principal of the school. Mrs. Jeffares holds a number of certificates from courses dealing with the teaching of the trainable retarded which she passed during the 1960s.

Claims seven dead men dominating our society

There are seven dead men whose destructive philosophies so decisively dominate our society that they may be said to "rule the world from their graves", according to Milton evangelist Ken Campbell. Addressing the Halton Regional leadership breakfast in Burlington's Holiday Inn Saturday, the founder and former chairman of Renaissance identified those seven men as Charles Darwin, Karl Marx, Julius Wellhausen, John Dewey, Sigmund Freud, John Maynard Keynes, and Soren Kierkegaard.

He contrasted the philosophies of each of these thinkers of the past generation or century with the teaching of Jesus whom he termed "History's Great Contemporary."

30 phones dead

A combination of thawing and road construction resulted in a loss of telephone service to about 30 homes for a few hours last week. About 30 houses were affected in the area bounded by Main, John, Church and Mill.

The phone circuits went dead Thursday about 6 p.m. Bell workmen located the source of the problem near Mackenzie Lumber company. Apparently moisture from thawing ground got into a hole in the cable, probably caused during reconstruction of Church St. last summer.

A compressor was brought to town Friday morning before repairs were completed about 1 p.m. Friday. Bell workmen said the short circuit was not unusual.
