Acton Centennial Library

Notes

by Mrs. Isabel Watson

At last we have some new books for our readers at the Acton public library. We are so pleased to tell you about some of them.

In non-fiction we have that so popular new book about Mackenzie King A Very Double Life by C. P. Stacey.

Walter Stewart's new But Not in Canada shows Canadian myths shattered by harsh reality.

A New Car Book will help you in auto survival. Games of Fear and Winning gives an inside view of sports by Jack Ludwig. General Record Keeping by Hufman and Stewart should be helpful to a small business-man.

Circus Tiger, Tiger, My 25 years with the Big Cats is by Charlie Baumann of Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey circus.

Working Mothers gives new ideas on how to be more successful at work and at home.

1848, The Romantic and Democratic Revolutions in Europe by Jean Sigmund is very well done and an interesting treatment of those days.

The Patient Not the Cure by Margery Blackie, physician to Her Majesty the Queen, explores the challenge of homeopathy.

Epilepsy We have a new handbook for parents, teachers and epileptics of all ages. The name of it is Seizures, Epilepsy and Your Child by Dr. Jorge C. Lagos.

In the fiction section there are recent best sellers Trinity by Leon Uris; Down a Dark Alley by Genevieve Holden, a chilling mystery; Slammer by Ben Greer, a prison story of great merit; The Burning Wood by David Williams which explores the conflict between Indians and whites in the Canadian west.

The Killing Is Easy by Michale Cronin is an involved sort of mystery. Josephine Lawrence's Under One Roof is once more one of her delightful family stories.

Sequel Paddington Green by Claire Itayner is a sequel to Gower Street, a book about years gone by and life in the Victorian era.

A Web of Salvage by Brian Collison is an excellent story of ships and the sea. A new Rex Stout mystery is called A Family Affair.

All God's Children is about a handicapped child and how the family dealt with this sad affliction.

Joseph Daley's Spicy Lady is a very interesting novel.

Also there is Robert Haig's The Antrobos Trust.

Jean Innis' story The Golden God is a family love story. Janis Dawson's new story of Mackenzie's Glen is a light book set in Scotland. Lightly Poached, Lillian Beckwith's new book about the Hebrides Islands in Scotland and her life in a Scottish croft, is enjoyable.

FOUR-YEAR-OLD David Henderson plays one of the games at the United church carnival on Saturday.

Councillors tour old jail

'Inhumane, — Eriksen 'neat, cheery' — Watson

According to Oakville Councillor Carl Eriksen, conditions at Milton's century-old jail are "inhumane and appalling."

Mr. Eriksen was one of several members of Halton Region's Administration Committee who toured the Brown St. jail Wednesday. While he told reporters after the tour that he was terribly upset by what he saw, others on the tour felt that while there are shortcomings, the needs of the inmates are being met adequately.

"I was appalled by the physical conditions of the jail. It's a very old building and is very dark and depressing. I was disgusted, appalled, terribly upset by what I saw there," he said.

He told of overcrowding, of situations where as many as 50 people stayed in the jail when there are only beds for about 25.

"The hole"

Commenting on the isolation cell, commonly referred to as "the hole," Eriksen said nobody deserved to stay in that. The hole is a small room with a concrete floor and no furniture. Prisoners sit on the floor. Eriksen said that only violent prisoners are sent there.

Eriksen told reporters that one prisoner said he had been beaten up by guards.

Milton Councillor Marjorie Powys said she has visited the jail on dozens of occasions. She said the overcrowding caused some people to have to sit on the floor to eat meals.

"If the public knew the conditions in the jail they would protest the dreadful conditions. The staff deserves commendation for working as well as they do under despicable conditions."

"School for crime"

"The jail is nothing but a school for crime," she said. She said prisoners should have more exercise and an opportunity for schooling. "They do nothing but sit there all day and all night. It is not good, physically or mentally," Milton Councillor Jim Watson was on the tour and submitted a report on what he saw.

Impressed

"I was quite impressed with the facilities and staff under the wing of our Social and Family Services, however, I will confine my comments mainly to the Halton Regional Jail in Milton as it seems to be getting such negative response lately."

"Quite frankly, I was impressed and almost totally satisfied with what I saw. The staff all seemed to be quite cheery and very receptive to the needs of the inmates. Although the kitchen is quite small, the staff are making the best of the situation. The food looked extremely appetizing and the facility is kept neat and tidy in spite of the very dark and dreary corridors. Most important of all, the inmates that I saw seemed quite 'at home'. The problem of the occasional over-crowding situation should be solved at the appropriate Ministry level—staff deserve commendation for endeavoring to live with this situation in the interim."

"It would be my recommendations and decorating be carried out so that working conditions for the staff are improved."

Not disturbed

Oakville Mayor Harry Barrett said he wasn't at all disturbed by what he saw.

"The jail is clean, the food is adequate and prisoners are not mistreated," he said.

Generally councillors touring the jail agreed with a raft of grand jury reports condemning the building.

Committee chairman Dave Coons said he felt there should be something done to improve recreation for the prisoners. He said the jail exercise yard was awfully muddy on rainy days.

New Jail

The jail will be replaced by a new one slated to be built on the Maplehurst property in Milton, but because of cut-backs in spending, the new jail won't be built for some time.

Estimated cost for the new facility runs at about $7,000,000.

Questioned in the past, representative of the Ministry of Correctional Services have said there are many jails in poorer condition than the Milton Jail.
