

Diplomas for 120 graduates

VALEDICTORIAN Andy Thomson had the audience laughing at Friday's commencement.

Graduation diplomas, scholarships, bursaries and awards were proudly presented to over 120 high school students Friday in a fast-paced program in the gym. There were 42 who received their Honour Graduation Diplomas this year, with 14 Ontario scholars among them. Graduation diplomas (four years) were received by 80 young people.

The gym was strikingly decorated and filled with families and friends for the evening. Genial Andy Thomson was class valedictorian. The graduates were entertained before the program at a dinner at the Legion hall, and afterward there was a dance at Acton Meadows.

New awards
Teachers and school board member Tom Watson made the presentations of scholarships, awards and bursaries. Other trustees present were the Rev. Gary Morton of Burlington and Bill Lawson of Ward 2, Milton.

There were two new awards this year, named in memory of two young students killed on the highway the past year.

The John McHugh Jr. Memorial Outers award was presented to Carol Buchanan by teacher Wally Rowley.

Acton Y's Men established the Broostad Memorial Art Award which was given to Carol McKenzie by Lloyd Broostad.

The third annual Closet award was presented amid much laughter to Lorella Deperel.

Valedictorian
Valedictorian Andy Thomson set his fellow grads roaring with laughter as he recalled the highlights of their experiences at Acton high.

On the Outers: Learning ecological awareness and hand to hand combat with woodchucks.

On the field trip to Quebec City: It stands alone as education experiences go.

On education: "What education?"

On restrictions placed upon valedictorians. No mime and no Groucho Marx masks may be worn.

Then he spoke of the friendships with the teachers, the camaraderie, and admitted their education had been good.

"Fun, you have to find for yourself," he concluded.

The chairperson of the student Association Audrey De Vries presented him with the traditional valedictorian medal.

New school
Principal Dean Fink welcomed the crowd and pointed out that next year the high school will be in a new building. He said he wanted to acknowledge the tremendous contribution Tom Watson, the school board member has made to bringing the beautiful new building to Acton. He concluded by saying how impressed he was by the grads.

Vice-principal Lyn McLaren concluded the program and refreshments were served in the cafeteria.
