Headplu Hillies

Well it sure is nice to be back in the hustle and bustle of the "Lanes". I'll never cease to mar-vel at medical science. All I did was to go up and see the M.O. about a stubborn case of indigesshout a stubborn case of indigestion and the next thing I knew I'm in intensive care (they should call it isolation) at the Guelph General Hospital being hooked up with more wires than the "Six Million Dollar Man". Then the fun started. Nurses and doctors were gathered around with some infernal machine trying to get my heart reading. What they didn't know was, I didn't have one. What they thought was my heart was an they thought was my heart was an old second-hand Delco battery from John's Texaco Service and they couldn't get it hooked up to work until some smart cookie suggested getting a booster cable. Apparently it worked because everybody settled down including everybody settled down including yours truly seeing as how some nurse jabbed my arm full of the serum they use to tranquilize elephants. All joking aside, the treatment was wonderful, all your cards, flowers, fruit and phone calls had the hospital staff thinking I was a V.I.P. and to all you wonderful people, thanks a million for everything and as I'm still under medical orders to take it easy, I'm cutting this short with adios, amigos and goodnite.
