Finishing touches applied to Brampton college

Contractors are putting the finishing touches to the new Sheridan College Brampton Campus, which will open for classes January 3, 1977, at the southeast corner of Steeles Ave., West, and McLaughlin Rd.

The top three floors of the multi-level complex, including the campus' technical wing, are complete. Workers are hurrying to finish the ground floor in time for the big move this Wednesday (Dec. 8). Moving vans will transfer the library and visual arts department from the existing Church St. campus to the new campus.

Everything else—technology, applied arts and business and secretarial studies—will be transported to the new facilities during the following week. The week of Dec. 20-24 will be spent setting up classrooms and studios in preparation for the beginning of classes Jan. 3.

Sheridan College vice-president Barrie Wray said the move will go ahead as planned whether or not construction is complete.

"We are committed irrevocably to begin moving Dec. 8 and to have classes start Jan. 3," he said. "We'll be there even if we have to dodge painters and carpenters."

The move will climax three years of design and construction since the $7.5 million first phase was approved by the Ministry of Colleges and Universities.

The new campus, located about one mile south of the existing one, is a cluster of four separate structures linked by an arterial course which forms the core or spine of the college.

The interior contains some courts, mezzanines, open teaching areas, technology labs, visual arts studios and general classrooms.

Student services such as cafeteria, health centre, bookstore and student-run dining room are also included along with staff and student lounges, administration centre, management development area, language development centre and test areas.

An important feature of the new campus will be the multi-purpose sports complex housing a gymnasium, squash courts and a student lounge. The concrete floor is now being poured in this area and heating and electrical work installed for completion by the end of January.

Endorse study on power lines

By Mark J. Leahy
The Halton Farm Safety Association hosted the Regional Farm Safety fall meeting at Bethel United Church, Trafalgar Road at 9:30 a.m. on December 1st. Mrs. Cecil Patterson, President of the local Association looked after registration and Secretary, Alfred Ford greeted visitors from other Counties. Meeting Chairman, John Collins, a Director with the Farm Safety Association, welcomed delegates from the various Counties. Larry Swinn, Senior Farm Safety Consultant, discussed the day's program.

In the morning session, various Counties' reports were given, highlighting their year's activities. Following this, two resolutions were introduced and voted on. The resolution that the Farm Safety Association continue its investigation of the health and safety hazards of high voltage transmission lines was adopted.

The second resolution stating that in order for the County Associations to qualify for the provincial grant in 1978, they must have successfully carried out a project of advertisements on a monthly basis with at least one newspaper in their respective counties during the fiscal year of 1977, was rejected.

A delicious roast beef dinner was provided by the Bethel Church Women's Institute.

Name director The afternoon program commenced with the nominations for Area Directors. Sam Schauerman won by acclamation. He will represent the Counties York, Peel, Halton, Wentworth, North Niagara and South Niagara. Mr. C. Halliman from St. John Ambulance discussed first aid courses—two courses are offered—first is an 8 hour emergency course and the second is a 16 hour complete course.

Hope everyone eligible got out and voted on Monday. It is our civic right. Too bad not enough people exercise it.
