Rev. J. Kirkwood is welcomed by many

by Mrs. Winifred Smith
Many were out to church on Sunday to welcome the Rev. James Kirkwood, his wife Marion and son Paul.

Mr. Stiles, when introducing the Kirkwood family said, he was sure that Jim did not need to be introduced, as many knew him as their native son. He spent his boyhood in the village, attended Blue Mountain school and was a regular attendant at Sunday School and church.

Younger members, and new ones in the congregation, however, were interested to meet the family that had given so much of their time and had sacrificed for the less fortunate people of the world. Instead of the regular sermon, there was a question period. Mr. and Mrs. Kirkwood taking part with Mr. Stiles asking the questions.

There was so much they could have said about their experiences in Africa but time would not allow it. Mrs. Kirkwood taught school in Northern Rhodesia and related some of her experiences. Jim said he was the head minister in charge of many rural churches, but the natives had laymen that preached and were making a good job in bringing the word of God to so many illiterate brothers. In summing up the couple said on returning home here, they felt we had so much in this country, and wasted so much, that things were not evenly divided. Mr. Stiles, on behalf of all, thanked the Kirkwoods for taking time from their busy schedule to come to speak.

The men's choir sang a beautiful anthem. A time of fellowship followed when lunch was served in the basement.

Many returned up to the church when the annual meeting took place.

Hall board
The final meeting for the present Community Centre Hall board for the year just ended, took place on January 10. The business for the year was finished up. Plans were made for the annual meeting to be Sunday afternoon Jan. 30th, at 2:30 p.m.

There will be several vacancies on the board and community anticipation will be needed to operate the hall for this year. Without the help of volunteers who give of their time, many of the dances and other community activities would not be possible. Most find it a rewarding experience to serve the community this way.

The last dance sponsored by the present Hall Board will be this Saturday night, Jan. 22. Glynn Powell will supply the music. Plan to attend and bring your friends and neighbours. Bookings are being taken now for spring weddings and banquets. If you are planning to use the hall phone early, well in advance of the date.

In the past the Halton Recreation and Y.M.C.A. have co-operated in setting up recreation for this area. If you are interested plan to attend the annual meeting and help organize any of the courses offered.

The U.C.W. held their first meeting of the New Year at the home of Mrs. Viola Shortill. There was a good attendance. The roll call was answered by the paying of dues for 1977. The devotion Looking Ahead was prepared by Mrs. Reta Shortill and given by the president Mrs. Larose. Instead of the usual topic there was a discussion and suggestions for the year's program.

Those in charge of lunch assisted the hostess with refreshments and a social time followed.

New family
Mr. and Mrs. Heritage have sold their home on the town line. The new family moved in on Saturday.

The leaders and assistants of the two Ballinafad 4-H Home-making Clubs, Clothes for Leisure, attended training school on Thursday and Friday of last week.

Mrs. Gisby's death in report

Teachers and pupils had a holiday Monday last week due to the snowstorm and only a few local pupils were at school on Tuesday as buses did not operate.

Mrs. Mitchell and Mrs. Kirkpatrick are both home from hospital and we hope they may enjoy better health.

Funeral
It is with great regret that we report the passing on

Wed. of Mrs. Sam Gisby, following another severe paralytic stroke. Rev. Peter Barrow conducted the funeral service at Limehouse Presbyterian church on Friday, and interment was in the adjoining cemetery.
