Halton Board of Education Even though Essex South national unity MPP Remo Mancini's private promoted among school chilmembers bill to raise the dren but doesn't want to force drinking age to 19 passed a letter writing campaign to second reading Thursday, Halton Board of Education Premier Rene Levesque on decided to offer belated support to the legislation. Thursday, the board Trustees received a letter rejected a suggestion by a Thursday requesting support Thursday the government Burlington parent that Halton follow Wentworth's lead and from Mancini, Although II have a national unity day at was too late to do anything spring. school, complete with letters to Levesque.

Director of Education Em Board starting Lavender explained national unity day in Wentworth was October 24. On that day ahead and provincial grants students were asked to neatly write letters to the Quebec premier asking him not to take Quebec out of Canada.

Dear Rene

Trustee Bill Priestner urged the board start some special efforts to promote unity. He said action is needed and Canadians are too prone to sit back and wait for someone else to do something.

Hinton worried about students sending letters. "I'd hate to see 100 letters sent to Levesque supporting unity and 1,400 sent telling him where to go." He said he didn't want to see pupils dragged into politics.

The idea of letters to Levesque was rejected.
