Academy awards at high school assembly

The Academy Awards was the theme for the Christmas assembly at the high school last Thursday morning. The grade 13 class once again followed tradition by organizing the assembly. This year the change to the new school helped to make their job a little easier with all the new facilities and a proper stage.

Brad Buchanan and Dave Hannah were the masters of ceremonies at the assembly and acted as hosts for the academy awards performance. Awards were given to various people in the school for things like Outdoorsman of the Year, Part-Goer of the Year, and Bride of the Year. Take-offs from television shows were also awarded recognition during Acton High's academy awards.

Students from other grades also took part in the show by performing skits and other humorous routines.

The highlight of the assembly was a take-off of a rock group from the 1950's. The stage was filled with glitter and excitement complete with background singers and well-rehearsed dance steps as the group "Ba Na Na" filled the stage with music and began waving bananas at the audience. The group was made up of grade 13's with the exception of teacher Brian Downes who sang "Why must I be a Teacher in Love." The audience reacted with loud rounds of applause for the group.

The beard-growing contest winners were announced at the assembly. The prize for the most unusual beard was given to Dave Berry. Best student beard was Mark Beaton and best teacher beard went to Boris Shean. The best all-round beard award was given to teacher Bill Coats with loud approval displayed by the audience.

A special presentation was given to Mrs. Betty Cole, a secretary from the office, for her years of dedication to the students and staff at the high school. Mrs. Cole is leaving her job at the school. The choir contest was won by Mr. McMillan's homeroom, the grade 13 economic class.

Room decorating was won by Mr. McArthur's class and by Rick Boychuck's.

A presentation was made to the students from the staff who participated in the annual teacher-student football game, the toilet bowl. This year the students defeated the teachers for the first time in the history of the toilet bowl. Ross McGill, a teacher at the high school, presented Mark Beaton, a student, with a toilet seat in recognition of the student victory.

The students also presented the teachers with a gift at the assembly. A framed picture of the football team was presented to the staff in memory of the game.

Acts and presentations included in the assembly were: Play people of the Year, Acton Tonight, Jock of the Year, Outdoorsman of the Year, BaNaNa, Scientist of the Year, Twilight, Part-Goer of the Year, Great Closet Giveaway, As the North Pole Turns, Mr. Sansom's homeroom, Metric time, Rally driver of the Year, Bride of the Year, Beard growing contest, choir contest winners, Brain of the Year, Gallstone Chronicle, Office Award, Room Decorating contest, Contest of the Year Award, Invention of the Year, Pink Panther, Group of the Year award, Acton TV show of the Year Award and a special award.

The assembly displayed the many talents at the high school and a sense of school spirit that the teachers and students share throughout the year.

MRS. BETTY Cole was presented with a pot of flowers from the students at the high school during the assembly. Mrs. Cole is leaving the school after spending many years in the office helping both staff and students.

We send you our sincerest wishes for a New Year of lasting joy and happiness.
