No seaport

If you asked his colleagues, they'd likely tell you that Oakville Regional Councillor Laurie Mannell is more often off base than on.

But still, you have to give the man credit for getting in there, fighting and digging to get to the bottom of things. Take last week, for instance.

Mr. Mannell's curiosity was triggered when he discovered an account in the public works department for a $20 payment to the bank for "A Bunch of Grapes".

When Laurie went looking for the great grape monster in the works department, he found out there really isn't one. In actual fact "A Bunch of Grapes" is a book store in New Hampshire and the $20 was for a bank draft to buy a book.

"Are we considering running a canal from Lake Ontario to Halton Hills and making Georgetown a seaport?" Laurie wondered.

Director of Public Works Bob Moore assures us the expenditure was for a book, not grapes, and the book deals with how engineers go about dealing with major projects, not just how to build canals.

And no, Laurie, there are no plans to make Georgetown a
