

4-H judges Study saddlebreds

By Eartha May
The Halton 4-H Livestock Judging Club held a meeting at Riverview Farm on July 31. This farm is owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. Broeder. The meeting opened with the pledge, roll call, and minutes.

The Broeders gave us some information and pamphlets on American Saddlebred Horses. They then showed us some of their beautiful Saddlebreds. Jeff Nurse gave us some tips on what to look for in the conformation of a Saddlebred horse. In these horses movement is more important than conformation. Mr. Broeder told us about the different types of movement and the various gaits.

We watched two films on the American Saddlebred; one of them showed the championship competition in the U.S.A. Following the films we judged a class trying to find a breed champion. It proved to be a difficult job and we were later told that all of them at one time had been champions in their division. We thanked our hosts, closed the meeting.

Police nab B & E trio

Halton Regional Police apprehended three juveniles who broke into a Knox Avenue home last week. The trio entered the house by kicking in the rear door.

Summer camp continues tradition

The Ukrainian camp on the fourth line outside of Acton is packing kids in again after more than 20 years of operation. The camp has completed its regular three week summer camp program and has just begun the annual two week sports camp. Administration officials report registration for the first three week camp to be approximately 125. Sports camp has a registration of about 30 children. The 15 members of the administration during the summer camp worked with children with the emphasis on learning to live away from home. The children enjoyed singing, crafts, games and general outdoor living. Sports camp is basically a training session. The young athletes are working towards preparing for the track meet at Centennial Stadium in two weeks. Ukrainians from many cities all over the United States will be attending the meet. The Ukrainian camp has gone a long way since its opening more than 20 years ago. Originally they used an old Toronto streetcar as their sleeping quarters. Eventually cabins were built and the camp became better equipped. They now have a full line of equipment, supplies, a pool, cabins and all the other things needed for a successful camp.

ANDREW HARRIS, left, and Ian Burnwood were found by Acton Scouters Mark Rowe and John Sharples at Limehouse. The two boys are part of a Scout group from England visiting Canada. The boys were left behind on a Bruce Trail hike because of blistered feet. They enjoyed a stay with Scouter John Sharples until Saturday when they were picked up by their leaders.

Local Scouters find Scouts at Limehouse

When Scouter Mark Rowe and John Sharples set out for a holiday Monday hike August 7, little did they suspect they would run into any other Scouts, especially from London England.

The two local Scouters, John's wife Andrea, son Jason and Mark's cousin Stephen Dear, all set out for a relaxing hike and picnic around the Limehouse area when they meet two boys who are members of the Scouting movement in England.

Andrew Harris, 19 and Ian Burnwood, 15 are members of a group of 12 Scouts who came to Canada on August 2 for a vacation. The group started hiking on the Bruce Trail in the Milton area and got as far as Limehouse when two members of the group Andrew and Ian were forced to stop because of serious blistering on their feet.

The group continued on, leaving the two boys to camp in Limehouse for the remainder of the week.

Upon finding the boys Scouter John Sharples offered that the boys come and stay with him and his family just outside of Acton. The boys refused, however changed their minds after a further invitation and stayed with the Sharples until last Saturday. On Saturday leaders from the troop picked up the boys who left to join fellow scouts in Oakville. The boys will be staying with families in Oakville. Andrew, the older of the two boys, is an assistant Cub Scout leader in Chiswick London and a member of a Venture Unit. Ian is a Scout in Pinner, London. The boys attended a Blue Jays game with Acton and Georgetown Scouts last week. Scouter Mark Rowe has the boys' addresses and plans to keep up the new-found friendship.
