C. Landsborough

Acton residents were shocked and saddened to hear of the sudden death of Charles Landsborough February 24.

The well-known Acton man died in his Lake Ave., home at the age of 70.

Mr. Landsborough was born April 5, 1908 in Acton, son of William Landsborough and Octavia Leavens. He attended Acton public high and Acton Continuation schools. On April 14, 1935, he married Marjorie Reid in Acton, and was purchasing agent at Beardmore.

The devoted Baptist was church organist, treasurer and clerk of the Acton Baptist church, and was also a member of the Lorne Scots Regimental Band, Guelph Musical Society Band and the Acton Citizens' Band. He was Bible society president.

Mr. Landsborough took great interest in gardening, photography, travelling, and band festival competitions.

He is survived by his wife, children, Robert, Newmarket, Helen (Mrs. Mac Sinclair), Ottawa, Ruth, (Mrs. Gordon Park) Petrolia, Donna (Mrs. David Syer), Sarnia, Joanne, Gravenhurst, William, Acton and Ralph, Petrolia, one brother Edwin, Guelph, and 11 grandchildren.

Funeral service was held at Shoemaker Funeral Home, with Rev. Das Sydney officiating. Interment was at Fairview Cemetery. Pallbearers were Grant Allan, Clarke Armstrong, Mike Gervais, and nephews David Walton, Don Livingston and Doug Peck.

Flowerbearers were grandchildren Cathy Park, Steven Park, Gina Sinclair, Chris Landsborough and Angela Syer.

Lena Mann

An active member of various organizations in Acton, Lena Mann, has died in her home, February 24.

Sunday school and was treasurer of the Sunday school. She is responsible for starting the Junior choir.

Mrs. Mann, 40 Maria St., (Edith Helena), was well known in town for great contributions to the town itself as well as groups. Born on December 30, 1906, the daughter of Martin and Janet Buck, she came to Acton from Manitoulin Island as a young girl. She worked for Wiles' Confectionery store and Hassard Drug Store. In later years, Mrs. Mann operated the Clansman Restaurant and the Cameo Shoppe with her son Kenneth. She also opened the first claims office in Acton for Unemployment Insurance Commission.

November 1, 1930, Mrs. Mann married her husband Alex in Owen Sound. She lived on Arthur St. for 35 years before moving to the Maria St. apartments.

Her many hobbies included baking pies, quilting, gardening, and music. She enjoyed tracing the Buck family genealogy.

In additions to these hobbies, Mrs. Mann also found time to sing in the Knox Church choir, something she did until her death. She taught

Camera to focus on Erin vandalism

A film documentary on vandalism is being produced by six grade 12 students at Erin District high school.

The five minute Super 8 color film is a class project in a history-communication course offered by teacher Don Jonescu.

Plans for the film include interviews with community leaders on the causes of vandalism in the village.

According to one of the students involved in the film, the boredom of living in a small town may be one of the reasons for vandalism and the film makers plan to look at the activities offered to fill the void.

No public screening of the film is planned.
