

Mrs. May MacKinnon, left, is served dessert by granddaughter Dawn Hilton while Dawn's mother, Dorothy, right, is served by Carmen Clow during Saturday afternoon's Daffodil Tea and craft sale at Knox Presbyterian Church. The tea was arranged by the Explorers, CGIT and the Bertha Buchanan group. Mrs. MacKinnon was visiting from Downsview.

Successful tea at Knox Church

The hard work of the Bertha Buchanan group, the Explorers and CGIT resulted in a very successful Daffodil Tea being held in Knox Presbyterian Church.

The Explorers had decorated the Dr. A. C. Stewart Hall with giant flowers and supplied fudge which was a best selling item at the baked goods table.

They also sold tickets on a draw for a beautiful floral arrangement, won by E. J. Steckley and a Black Forest cake which was won by Rosemary Findlay.

The CGIT contributed baked goods and a variety of craft items. Door prizes were won by Glen Findlay, Jodie Archibald and Helen Jocque.

Croatian centre out - beaten by one vote

The Croatian recreational and cultural centre, which squeaked through planning board last week by one vote, was rejected by Halton Hills council, Monday night by the same slim one vote margin.

planner said some of the uses are permissible now, but contended a clubhouse was not one of them. He said the project primarily would serve non-residents of the area from all Ontario and the northern United States. He said the only fact in favor of it, the use by the public of the facilities was nebulous, claiming it could not be enforced. Webster claimed the control agreement does not bear close scrutiny.

and maintained after a million dollars is spent on the proposal it would be difficult for the Ontario Municipal Board to stop expansion. "It would become self-perpetuating". Webster insisted the planner's report never stated it was a good location for the project, but only suggested ways to minimize the impact. Councillor Russ Miller said his conscience would not let him vote for something with so many possible problems. "The people already there should be our first concern". He said there are good farms in the area and claimed noise can upset cattle. He said he had been told of noise already, and stated allowing the project would simply aggravate people who have lived there for many years. Councillor Harry Levy said he opposed the project at planning board and would oppose it again. He claimed the

by Harry Norton

The last meeting of the 1978-1979 Legion year was held in the branch on Monday, May 7.

Some 52 members attended and after the minutes of the previous meeting and the executive meetings since that time had been read and approved the meeting was turned over to Comrade Frank Bunlin, Zone Commander, Comrade Fred Baker, past Zone Secretary and Comrade Moe Touter, past Zone Poppy chairman.

After confirming the number of voting members in attendance they proceeded with the election of officers and executive for the 1979-1980 term. Besides candidates who had already signed nomination slips there were a number of nominations from the floor.

Once the voting was completed Comrades Bunlin, Baker and Touter installed the newly elected officials and charged them with their responsibility to the branch and to the members for the coming year.

The following comrades are now in charge of Branch 197 for the 1979-1980 Legion year:

Past president, Ab Irwin; president, John Goy Sr.; first vice president, Alex (Pat) Waldie; second vice president, Fred Allen; secretary, Len Shone; treasurer, Gord McCutcheon; executive, Bob Angell, Kevin Conroy, A. Moss, H. W. Norton, E. Waller; Sgt. at Arms, M.M. Patenaude; trustees, Ed Footitt, Wm. Taylor, Alex Wilson.

Your executive will hold regular meetings throughout the summer but the next general meeting will not be till September. In the meantime come on out and use your branch and let the new executive know what you are willing to do to assist in the operation of your Branch.

Golden Agers seek drop-in centre

The Acton Golden Age club is looking for a home, and have turned to Halton Hills council for help.

In a letter to council Monday evening, Mrs. R.H. Besley, R.R. 4, Acton, explained when the town hall was closed last year, the club's only meeting place was taken away from them. Since then, they have had to rent various halls for their monthly meetings, but are in need of a drop-in centre. Council turned the matter over to their staff to make up a report.

Croatian language school open in Acton Saturdays

The Croatian community of Acton, Georgetown and Rockwood celebrated the opening of a Croatian Language School (Heritage Language programs). Classes are held every Saturday at St. Joseph's School in Acton. Twenty-five boys and girls are attending Heritage language classes.

The Croatia Community expressed their gratitude to the principal of St. Joseph's School, Sean Briggs and to the Board of Education, who made the functioning of the school possible. Teacher at the school, Mr. M. Basic, who is also the editor of "Croatian Voice", published in Acton, said he is happy with the children. "I am glad," said Mr. Basic. "That the parents have so much national consciousness. Without their help it would not have been possible to open the school." Mr. Basic also said "If participation is as good as now the number of pupils will increase next term.

Williamstown band to visit Acton High

During the last week of May the band from Char-Lan District High School in Williamstown, Ontario will be visiting Acton as guests of the Acton High School Band. The combined bands will be performing in a public concert on May 25 as the culmination of a year's co-operative effort.

had the opportunity to tour historic Williamstown, to party with the host band and to make many new friends. They are eagerly awaiting the return visit. The band from Char-Lan will arrive in Acton on May 24 and will be billeted with our high school musicians. Intensive rehearsals will put the final touches on the six major band works that have been chosen to form the second half of the program. For these, the combined forces of 75 musicians will be used.

Hamstown bands will combine forces for the second half. Tickets will be available from all band members and from the high school. Other events planned for the three-day visit include two assemblies for the high school, a tour of Acton and area, and various social activities. David Sale and Gary Bryan, directors of the two bands were enthusiastic about the exchange and the concert.
