The Canoe Ontario's Paddlecade was at Prospect Park in Acton last Wednesday and Mary Beggan, Peigi Lyne and Shenna Nykolaiszyn put on a skit to emphasize the safety rules when canoeing. Not only did the spectators enjoy the skit, but they were then shown the different paddles strokes and given the opportunity to try them in the canoes provided. Over all the participants seemed to enjoy themselves and we feel it was a worthwhile experience.

Raiders might join north

The south division of the OHA Intermediate A league is in danger of collapsing with only the Georgetown Raiders surviving. Raider fans may miss seeing four long-time rivals next winter, but could be seeing northern clubs, including two or three new teams regularly.

At press time convener of the loop, Pat Doherty said only the defending champion Raiders had applied to the OHA for league membership next year.

Dundas Merchants, Thorold Athletics, Fort Erie Frontiers and Port Colborne Sailors all appear prepared to not operate next season, for various reasons. Meanwhile, the north division has apparently lost one club but will add two or three new teams. Should the Niagara Peninsula teams go down the drain, Georgetown would presumably join the five or six northern clubs in a new, single division circuit.

Acton over Ponsoby with a steady pitching performance. Haynes allowed single runs to cross the plate in the first, third and fifth innings. Acton scored seven times in the first inning, four in the second and eight in the fifth to take a 19-2 lead and then extended the count with a pair in the fifth and five in the seventh.

Sean Fitzgerald and David Haynes accompanied Cargill in the home run hitting performance in the game, adding one each.

In their two losses the Acton bats were not quite as lively. In their 18-5 loss to Maryhill the Transmissioners counted a pair of hits each from Fitzgerald and Cargill with only a double by Fitzgerald accounting for extra bases.

Dave Paul and John Coniglio accounted for the lone Acton runs in their 19-2 loss to Eramosa.

Acton Midget Girls first baseman Lori DeBruyn stepped on the bag just in time to get a call of out from the umpire during Halton Rural action last Wednesday. Lowville trounced the Acton squad having little trouble outscoring their hosts.
