Review fees for community centres

Groups using community centres in Halton Hills will be offered the chance to give the town input regarding rates. Clerk-Administrator Ken Richardson told Halton Hills General Committee Monday night he and the recreation director Tom Shepherd want to go back and review the new, higher rental rates, for community centres which were set last fall. Richardson cautioned the review might not mean a new set of rates, or a reduction. However, it has been discovered a number of groups using community halls weren't aware of the increases. Richardson said he and Shepherd want to go back and talk to some more groups and then bring back a report to council. Mayor Pete Pomeroy endorsed the suggestion, noting council had been under the impression all groups booking the halls were consulted about the rate hikes, but many haven't been. He said that has gotten staff and councillors in some "hot water."

Wood named

An Acton member of Halton Hills council, Ed Wood, was named last week as one of two council representatives to the Community Schools Administration Committee for 1980. The Community Schools Administration Committee is made up of council and school board representatives and deals with sharing of facilities.

Town may save on garbage cost

Halton Hills could save some garbage disposal costs following region's decision to direct Milton garbage to the Burlington dump instead of the Oakville landfill site. Councilor Russ Miller informed Halton Hills General Committee Monday night. Since the Georgetown dump was closed in the fall Acton and Georgetown garbage has been shipped south to Oakville, as has Milton refuse. Miller noted last week region public works committee discussed sending Milton garbage to the Burlington dump last week and found staff had studied the situation. Sending Milton garbage to Burlington would add only 10 minutes time and three-and-one-half miles to each trip. Milton didn't object to its refuse going to Burlington instead of Oakville. Miller observed this will leave more room in the Oakville dump for Halton Hills garbage and may save the town some money too in the longrun.

Interim tax out soon

Acton and Esquesing ratepayers will receive their interim tax bills from Halton Hills soon and the first instalment is due February 27. The second instalment is due April 30. The interim tax bill is based on no more than half of last year's mill rate and allows the town to bring in some revenue, without having yet set the budget or the 1980 mill rate. This cuts the cost of borrowing to run the municipality. Last week Halton Hills council authorized the interim tax levy based on 66.57 mills in Acton and 61.82 mills in Esquesing.
