

Wood pleads guilty

Former Acton OPP officer and a Georgetown resident Roy Wood pleaded guilty in County Court last week to a charge of theft over $200.

Wood is to be sentenced today (Wednesday).

The former Peel Regional Police detective was charged last summer with theft of about $1,000. of Mississauga police station storeroom property after an inventory revealed some items were missing.

Wood was vacationing in England when the theft was discovered and returned to Canada voluntarily only after extradition proceedings were started.

The stolen goods included a color television, camera, clothing and household items. The merchandise was being held by police after being seized in the raid of a suspected shoplifter's home. It was found in a raid of Wood's Georgetown home.

Wood, age 41, was described in court as a model officer during his 16 year career. His lawyer told the court he was now a broken man, separated from his wife, in conflict with his 20-year-old daughter Kim, had suffered two heart attacks during the 70s, was distressed by his sister's battle with leukemia and had survived a serious car crash.

Optimists promote Respect for Law

The Acton Optimist Club has announced a Respect for Law program for the area.

The program has been developed to "combat the atmosphere of lawlessness that appears to be spreading from community to community at a rate," a press release from the Optimists states.

The Optimists want to help "bridge the gap of misunderstanding which exists between law enforcement agencies and citizens."

Club president Dave Henderson said the Respect for Law program "will attempt to make citizens aware of their responsibilities and solicit their involvement in combating crime."

Henderson asks Acton and area residents to join the club in observing Respect for Law Week and Police Week. "Good law enforcement cannot be the responsibility of police officers alone. Your help is needed."

The Respect for Law campaign is designed to help "combat public apathy and indifference towards crime and criminals and rekindle proper respect for and moral responsibility under the law."

Another aim is to "promote and recognize participation of the public in the dispensation of justice, through service as witnesses or on juries, and co-operation with law enforcement officers in the discharge of their duties."

The Respect for Law program is also designed to "better acquaint the public with the duties, responsibilities and needs of law enforcement officers and to recognize and honor unusual, outstanding services rendered by citizens, including law enforcement officers."

School beat M.Z. Bennett

by Lisa McIsaac

On Monday, some new pupils began coming to our school. These people are Vietnamese, and they are being taught English as well as many things about Canada. Their teacher is Mrs. Euwen, and they are using Room 16 every morning. We hope that these people will feel welcome at M.Z. Bennett.

Last week, on Thursday and Friday, our new M.Z. Bennett T-shirts were sold. Nearly every T-shirt was sold, and more have been ordered. They will be here as soon as possible.
