The bride wore an empire-waisted gown with a ruffled Elizabethan neckline and full-length sleeves inlaid with lace. The chiffon gown buttoned at the back from neck to waist. The bride also wore a laced Juliet cap with a three-quarter length chiffon veil, inlaid with lace. She carried one large white orchid in a cascading arrangement of baby's breath, ivy and white ribbons.

Mrs. Elaine Mitchell, the bride's sister, served as matron of honor while Karin and Sheri-Lynn Johnson were bridesmaids. They wore full-length peach-colored gowns and carried heart shaped wicker fans covered with a single, silk orange poppy, silk baby's breath and tropical greenery.

Thicker billing coming?

Councillor Gus Goutouski has asked the Region to look into ways of distributing pamphlets on disease and disease control to residents through tax and utilities bills.

Mr. Goutouski said seniors particularly would be receiving information brochures along with information of what services are available to them.

Members of Regional Health and Social Services Committee were told Halton does receive many pamphlets in the health department but the only distribution method used is to place them out on counters where people will hopefully pick them up.

Mr. Goutouski asked staff to return with a report on what can be sent out in telephone, hydro, and other utilities bills.

Couple celebrate traditional wedding

Kathy Marie Johnston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Johnston and James Clifford Ellerby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Ellerby of Acton exchanged vows in a traditional early summer wedding, at St. Alban's.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white-laced hooped gown, fashioned with leg o' mutton sleeves and a key hole neckline. Falling from the waist were deep tiers of scalloped-edged lace continuing into a cathedral train. She wore her sister Judy's three-quarter length veil and carried a bouquet of yellow carnations and lilies of the valley.

Kim Timbers as maid of honor, and bridesmaids Barb Turkosz and Margie Johnston, all of Acton, wore matching floor-length, peasant-style gowns of yellow eyelet, made by the bride. They carried white parasols trimmed with white lace and yellow carnations.

Larry McGilloway was best man, with Andy Ellerby as usher.

The bride's mother received guests at the Acton Music Centre in a pink, three-quarter length dress with a white rose corsage. The groom's mother wore a dusty-rose, street-length dress with matching orchid.

During one of the music breaks, the groom presented each guest with a piece of wedding cake made by his grandmother Ellerby while the bride handed a red rose to each lady.
