

Everybody loves a parade

Members of Royal Canadian Legion Branch 197 marched in the parade.

The Acton Citizen's Band presented spectators with the first music of the day.

Acton Bull Dogs strung themselves together for the parade.

One grant for downtowns

At present any provincial grants for studies or projects aimed at revitalizing downtown cores only apply to one central business area, posing a problem for Halton Hills, which has two such areas, one in downtown Acton and the other in downtown Georgetown.

Tuesday night, planning board recommended a letter be sent to the Ministry of Housing explaining the creation of one town under regional government had resulted in the two Main Street business areas, and asking that the Main Street Revitalization Program be applied to each central business district.

The Ministry was also asked for funds to undertake a study, eventually leading to application for projects to be carried out in the downtown areas.

Y registration

Registration for Murray Memorial YMCA fall courses began last night and continues to night (Wednesday) Thursday and next Tuesday evenings from 8:30 to 8:30 p.m.

The change in registration dates means courses will start a couple of weeks later than planned but will run their full length.
