Saving has become fashionable in these days of explosive prices. Why not buy such expendable items as a broom, garbage bags, light bulbs, auto essentials and home preservers when we know these essentials are priced to save?

We have all experienced the dead flashlight when we just had to have its light - the flash attachment that didn't flash when that indoor picture was so urgently wanted. Now we can have battery savings with the much longer life Duracells.

There is very little wrong with saving when a vinyl runner will protect your rugs from the winter elements, when booster cables will save you from a service station bill, when a fire extinguisher might save your life. Then there is bird seed to save our beautiful, cheery winter friends from starvation and the deep snow.

Now just take another few minutes, run over these every day items and list your needs for many savings. Your friendly Handyman will also have his over-stocked items and all his shelf warmers boldly marked with a Red Clear-out Tag. Again more savings for you.
