

Store shows local craftwork

Gail Charette finds a comfortable spot to sit at her store Pinecraft in Leathersmith Village. Gail, along with husband Rob run Pinecraft, featuring work from local craftsmen.

The beauty of pine furniture has been brought to the Leathersmith Mall by way of Pinecraft.

Pinecraft is owned and operated by Gail and Rob Charette of Acton and features pine furniture and accessories. It officially opened Monday, Mr. Charette, a lifelong resident of Acton, had been making pine furniture for some time in a shop about one mile outside town. He's had his own business for the past six months and, said his wife, has always been doing woodworking in his spare time.

She said they thought it was time to open a store and go into business and shown a lot of interest. Some of Rob's work is displayed in the store, along with furniture from a dealer in Burlington. "We looked around at other furniture-making shops, but Rob liked this dealer's work," said Mrs. Charette.

She said space in the store is limited, so not all items can be displayed. But they do a lot of work by order and will customize. "If someone wants a table in another color or size, it can easily be looked into," she said.

As well as dining room suites, four poster beds and coffee tables, Pinecraft also offers accessory lines in, for instance, the bathroom—towel racks, shelves, hampers and mirrors.

They also have cedar chests, blanket boxes, backgammon tables and end tables to match, and the shop displays pottery by a local artist Carol Buginski.
