Mark Beaton—King Nebuchadnezzar—and his assistant David Leslie listen attentively while Daniel—Helen Robertson—reveals the truth of the king's dream.

Helen Robertson, who played the part of Daniel, makes a point about the God of gods.

During one of the choruses Miriam Beaton twirls Laura Ann Leslie.

PERFECT HEARING LOOKS LIKE THIS.

YOUR HEARING IS PERFECT AND COMMUNICATION IS CLEAR, UNDERSTANDABLE.

IMPAIRED HEARING LOOKS LIKE THIS.

WHEN HEARING IS IMPAIRED IT'S HARD TO COMMUNICATE: YOU STRUGGLE TO CATCH EVERY SOUND, EVERY WORD.

Deafness is the invisible handicap. That's why you can't see that it's the largest handicap in Canada—more than 550,000 people are hearing-impaired in Ontario alone. And did you know that there are virtually no psychiatrists, doctors, lawyers or clergy trained to communicate with deaf people? Or that ninety-nine percent of all theatres, churches and cinemas have made no effort to improve their audio systems through loops of FM devices? 1981 is the Year of the Disabled Person. Find out what you can do to make the theme "Full Participation and Equality" a reality for millions of Canadians.

Be a hearing aid.
