21 Inorganic Chemist
Inorganic Chemist Caledon Laboratories, a well known Canadian producer of high purity Laboratory solvents offers a unique position for an inorganic chemist. A decision to expand has created an opportunity to accept key responsibilities in the development of a new product line. These will involve the setting up of production, purification and testing procedures for a group of inorganic laboratory chemicals which will complement Caledon's highly successful organic solvents. Ideal candidates will have organizational and communication skills and will possess at least a B.Sc. degree and two or more years additional training or experience in inorganic chemistry. A promotion has created an opening to be filled by a technician or technologist who can take on some supervisory responsibilities. As Production Technologist you will carry out the purification of organic solvents and other products using chemical and physical methods including distillation. Candidates should have good chemical training and mechanical aptitude, with one to three years working experience. For either of these positions, please send your resume in confidence to Mr. Douglas Brock, President, Caledon Laboratories Ltd., 40 Armstrong Avenue, Georgetown, Ontario L7G 4R9. 042qam18

74 Inorganic Chemist
Inorganic Chemist Caledon Laboratories, a well known Canadian producer of high purity Laboratory solvents offers a unique position for an inorganic chemist. A decision to expand has created an opportunity to accept key responsibilities in the development of a new product line. These will involve the setting up of production, purification and testing procedures for a group of inorganic laboratory chemicals which will complement Caledon's highly successful organic solvents. Ideal candidates will have organizational and communication skills and will possess at least a B.Sc. degree and two or more years additional training or experience in inorganic chemistry. A promotion has created an opening to be filled by a technician or technologist who can take on some supervisory responsibilities. As Production Technologist you will carry out the purification of organic solvents and other products using chemical and physical methods including distillation. Candidates should have good chemical training and mechanical aptitude, with one to three years working experience. For either of these positions, please send your resume in confidence to Mr. Douglas Brock, President, Caledon Laboratories Ltd., 40 Armstrong Avenue, Georgetown, Ontario L7G 4R9. 042qam18
