

Golfers encouraged to play for Timmy

For the sake of one ten-dollar bill, golfers in this area can make a good contribution to the Easter Seal Society, have some fun and a chance at winning some prizes. The Al Balding's Golf Week for Timmy raised $38,000 last year for the Society (previously known as the Ontario Society for Chrippled Children) and has become a fixture in the program. For a $10 fee, golfers receive an official score card at a participating golf course which entitles them to a chance at numerous prizes.

The contest part of the event culminates with the Tournament to Champions at Rolling Hills Golf Course in Stouffville July 14. The week began last Saturday and ends Sunday. Eight dollars from the fee goes directly to the Society while two dollars is retained by the club for local prizes. The total program represents a large cooperating program among the regional police force which does most of the leg work, the participating courses, the Society, Al Balding who organizes the week and lends his name and Carling O'Keefe Breweries which silently underwrites the operating costs to allow all money collected to go towards the program. In a nutshell, a golfer goes to a participating course, pays $10 and receives a scorecard. The card is submitted back to the club and using a handicap system which allows anyone to win, are collected by the various police forces who determine a club champion. The provincial club champions, one male and one female meet at Rolling Hills for a tournament where large prizes, all donated are distributed. The Golf Week raised $2,600 last year in Halton and organizers have set their sights on $4,000.
