

Acton Family Cleaners had a terrific novelty float, complete with owner Ed Wood hand-ironing some old clothes.

Acton Legion took advantage of their 50th anniversary for the theme of their float.

The Acton Free Press and Leathertown jointly sponsored a float to show how both are working together to promote Acton.

Acton Figure Skating Club rounded up many of their members for their float.

Carlsberg Horses are always a favorite in any parade.

Parade winds through town

The cold wind on Saturday did not deter hundreds of parade lovers from lining Mill St. to see the Acton Fall Fair Parade.

Leading the parade was Citizen of the Year Ron McKnight, who also officially opened the fair Friday night. The Acton Citizens' Band followed playing favorite tunes as they marched.

Acton Agricultural Society presidents were next with the Halton Dairy Princess, Laura Marshall following. Behind her was Halton Hills Mayor Pete Pomeroy.

The Ladies' Division of the Agricultural Society was next with a Harvest Time float, and then the Acton Boys' Brigade marched by. The High School Voyageurs, carrying their magnificent canoe followed, leading the way for Miss Acton, Cindy McGilloway, and her runners-up Kymm Lakin and Marlene Lott, followed by Miss Actons of the Past.

The Lions Club was next, followed by the Georgetown Pipe Band. The Acton Canadian Legion float and marchers were next, followed by a healthy body cell by the Canadian Cancer Society.

Beavers, cubs and scouts were next in line and decorated bikes and trikes, paved the way for Trinity Church Scouts and the Rockwood trail riders. An antique car was followed by the Acton Free Press, Leathertown float, and then the Acton Minor Hockey 500 Club car. The Ajax sea cadets were next in line, followed by tractor equipment and a youth bowling float. The Acton

Figure Skating float and Family Cleaners float cleared the streets for the Carlsberg Horses, which were followed by the First Acton Scouts. Bella Maye Roszell, representing Vanda Beauty Products rode through town next, just ahead of the Georgetown Girls' Pipe Band. The Acton Business Improvement Area with the musical group The Strangers followed. The Acton firefighters prized old Studebaker and other trucks filled the street next, followed by the St. John Ambulance, Halton Hills Furniture and Appliances horse riders and the Minor Ball representatives.
