about 400 more people this year. Petrillo said Leathertown would like to land a big name entertainer, such as Anne Murray, for a show at the rink on Saturday night. Certainly tickets wouldn't be cheap, but even considering the cost a profit could be made.

Sunday there would be an ecumenical church service in the arena involving the local clergy as well as Athletes in Action, an organization of Christian sports stars who like to reach out into communities. Then there would be a luncheon in the rink followed by a ball game between the Athletes in Action, in May likely Canadian football stars, and a local Leathertown urged Actario and Ted Tyler again stage its highly successful market downtown. Tyler expressed reservations about May weather and the fact there wouldn't be any local produce available that time of the year.
