By trial and error

You don't have to be the fastest to win at off-road trials.

Last weekend over 50 off-road motorcycle enthusiasts converged near Sheridan College Heavy Equipment north of Milton. They weren't out to see who was the fastest, but which rider was the most skilled in a trials competition run by the Halton Off-Road Riders Association.

Unlike the well known motocross, a trials run is like a bicycle rodeo for off-landers. The riders have to drive around and over rocks, trees and creeks while accumulating the fewest penalty points.

One of the over fifty competitors in a trials event held by the Halton Off-Road Riders Association tried to climb a hill with one wheel.

In the end, experience proved to be the key to winning as Canadian champion Wayne Woloschuk gathered a mere 46 points to take the expert title. Trevor Howard was close behind with just 48 points.

Dave Thomas was best in the senior class with 68, next was Geoff Diner with 104. G.A. Doroshenko was tops in the junior class with 83 points and Jamie Jones was second with 87.

Riders in trials competitions use regular off road bikes, with a few modifications. They can change the shocks and the gear ratios of the bikes to reduce speed and improve handling.

Even with the slow speed of the bikes, riders still found things difficult, said Brett Hayes. "It was a very tough event, we made it a little tougher than we intended, but most of the riders were complimentary," he said.

The few riders who did gripe to circuit designer Hayes were the ones who suffered from the difficulty in the course.

The Halton Off-Roaders club is one of the largest in the area. About two thirds of the membership lives in the Acton-Georgetown area, with the remainder coming from Orangeville.

The only other club close in size is one located in Oshawa. The sport may not be growing dramatically, but it is becoming more accepted.

Last weekend two representatives from the Regional Planning Department were on the scene to check the damage done to their land by the trials event.

"They seemed very happy with the way things are looking, that we didn't do any damage - equally we were pleased," he said.

A trials competition course is about six miles long, and isn't too exciting for spectators so a club can't make much money from attendance.
