

No date yet for hearing

No date has been set yet for the Conservation Review Board hearing for the town hall.

Shirley Milligan of the Conservation Review Board, said in an interview this week that she expects they'll be getting in touch with Halton Hills this week to discuss a date and place for the hearing.

The municipality sent in its application and other material June 29 but the provincial body has been slow responding. Ms. Milligan said because they are short-staffed.

She said they want to discuss the hearing with the municipality so a "date that suits everyone" can be arranged.

Halton Hills has voted to demolish the hall and put in a parking lot and must lift the historical designation it gave the building several years ago.

Numerous hall restoration supporters wrote the town objecting to the lifting of the designation and demolition.

Because there were objections council referred the matter to the heritage agency for a hearing.

The Conservation Review Board, after hearing from anyone who wishes to talk, will take about a month to make its recommendations. The recommendations aren't binding on council.

TD branch here one of 75 in Ontario closed

The Toronto Dominion Bank branch in Acton closed last month is one of at least 75 closed in Ontario in the last 21 2 years.

Figures from the Canadian Bankers' Association released this week by Etobicoke MPP Ed Philip, who has called for the Province of Ontario Savings Bank to open more branches, show since January 1960 at least 75 branches have closed.

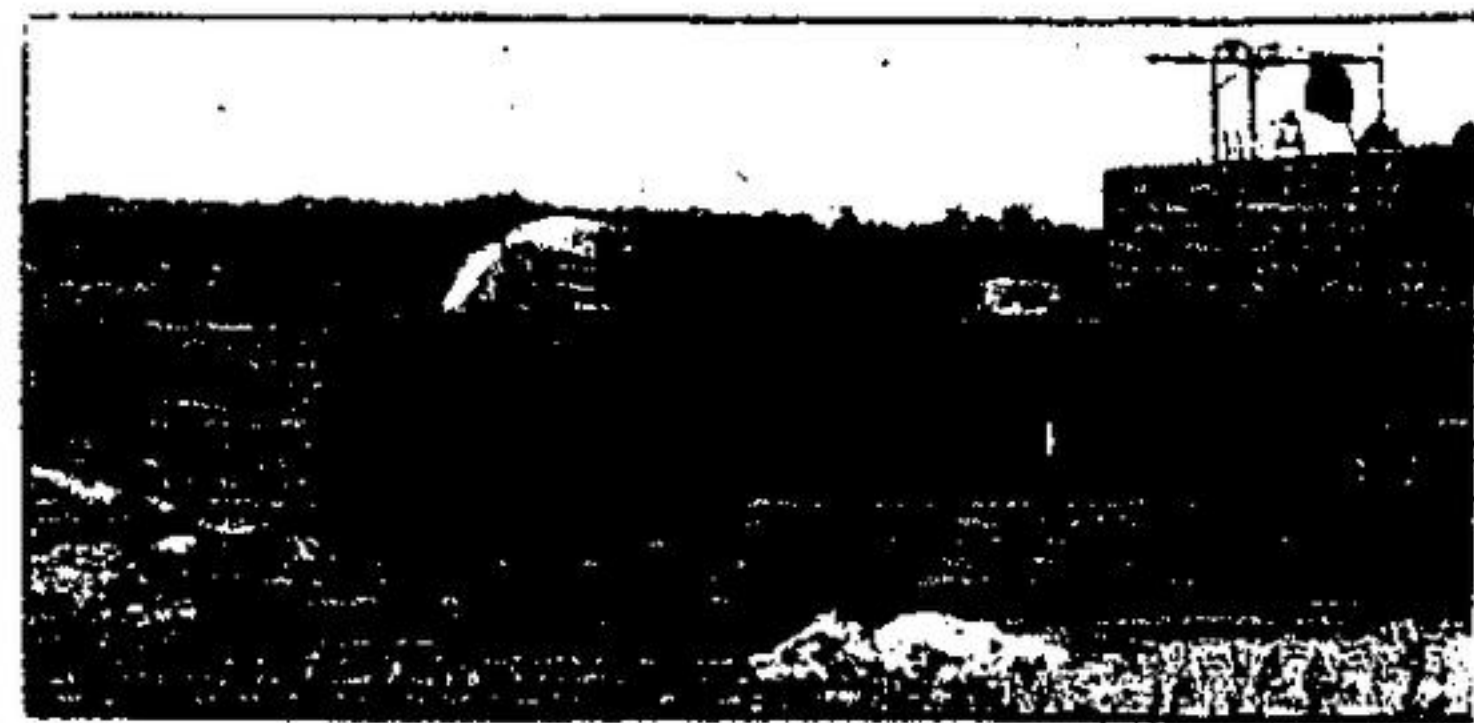

The NDP backbencher pointed to the village of Manitowaning on Manitowaning Island where the Bank of Montreal has closed the only bank in town as a good starting spot for expansion of the "stagnant 21-branch banking network of the poorly publicized Province of Ontario Savings Office." He said communities are being "abandoned by the Chartered Banks."

"Indeed in Tory Alberta a model exists for Bill Davis to act to establish an active role in banking. The Province of Alberta Treasury Branches operates over 117 branches and 100 agencies in 195 Alberta communities and provides Albertans with a full range of deposit and loan services. In 1980 the Treasury branches also earned a tidy $23 million in profit.

"This government should make proper use of the agencies currently under its control such as the Province of Ontario Savings Office. Ontarians should not be at the corporate mercy of the chartered banks! In December 1981 I introduced a Private Member's Bill to expand the Ontario Savings Office. It is time the Government acted on this," Philip declared.

Construction at St. Joseph's School is progressing right on schedule.

New St. Joseph's still on schedule

Hopes are still high work will be completed and students can move into the new St. Joseph's School at the start of school in September.

Construction trades strikers slowed work for a few weeks in the spring but everything is back on schedule according to Trustee Irene McCauley.

With the roof almost finished, she said, Weber Construction now has to worry about the weather a lot less. McCauley said the contractor is still "very hopeful" everything will be ready in time for the start of school. Most of the rough work is completed, she noted, so the finishing touches and interior is what is left to be done.

She praised the Weber family for keeping the project going with their personal efforts during the strike.

4-H
POULTRY CLUB
by Scott Parsons
The second Halton H Poultry Club meeting was opened by Jol McPhail with the 4-pledge. Then he turned the meeting over to the leaders.

Leader Jim McPhail asked the mortality rate of members' birds. The average was 20% of chicken. Also discussed was how aggressive breeds should be separated—cockers from pullets.
